Reunify Germany Is Bid by Soviet

Western Diplomats See Move Aimed at Overthrow of Adenauer

Washington, Aug. 17 (AP)—Russia suggested last night that Germany be reunified—and severed from military ties with the west—in what western diplomats generally regarded as a propaganda move aimed at the overthrow of the Adenauer West German government.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Bonn government faces popular elections on Sept. 6 and, as diplomats here read the Russian proposals, Moscow was doing all it could to assure its overthrow by holding out hope for early unification of East and West Germany.

The most important question in Europe, the Moscow radio said, is the "peaceful reunification of Germany and the conclusion of a peace treaty with it."

In notes delivered in Moscow to the United States, Britain and France, the Kremlin urged immediate creation of a provisional all-German government. It also urged the western Big Three to support a peace conference on Germany of "all interested parties" within six months.

Summons Its Puppets

Moscow simultaneously called for an end to German reparations by next Jan. 1, and it summoned its East German puppets to the Kremlin for talks.

The all-German government, proposed to replace the Adenauer regime and the Red-controlled East German government, would be assigned the task of devising an election law which would per-

More Allied POWs Come Home Today

Panmunjom, Aug. 17 (AP)—The Communists freed 400 allied war prisoners today — 73 of them Americans—and promised their biggest shipment of the Korean POW exchange for tomorrow—450 allied captives including 75 Americans.

Today's group brought the total of Americans returned to 1,105, just over one-third of the 3,313 the Reds have said they held.

The Reds also freed 75 British, 250 South Koreans, 1 Japanese who had served with U. S. forces as a houseboy, and a Japan-born Korean who said he served with the South Korean army although he was released as a civilian.

The Americans and British jumped briskly from the Red trucks that rolled them down from the Red grouping center at Kaeson. They laughed as they moved into the allied tents and appeared in good health.

The sun shone brightly as they stepped into trucks for the ride south to nearby Freedom Village for processing.

A total of 5,177 allied troops have been freed in 13 days of the exchange. The Reds have said they held 12,763.

As the allied prisoners were handed over, truckloads of Communist POWs rolled north, singing loudly.

Meanwhile, the POW command said four ships carrying 2,400 Red prisoners to the port of Inchon from Koje Island were forced back by typhoon winds.

The POW command said the delay would not affect Tuesday's delivery but may reduce Wednesday's shipment to 600. The UNC has been sending back about 2,400 Reds at Panmunjom daily.

New Red Aircraft

Returning Americans told of seeing what they believed are new types of Red jet aircraft—twin-engine fighter-bombers and jet fighters smaller than the Russian-built MIGs.

One repatriate said he saw nine Communist jet bombers, flying in formations of three each, as he passed through the North Korean capital city of Pyongyang on his way from a prison camp on the Yalu River to Panmunjom.

Other prisoners added to earlier reports the Chinese are holding back American POWs.

Cpl. Howard Waters Jr., 25, of Battle Creek, Mich., said that 12 to 14 men in his company, the third company at camp 1 were suddenly taken away by the Chinese a short time before the armistice was signed.

Waters said these were the "popular guys" in the company—the leaders. He said they were what the Reds called "reactionaries"—men who consistently opposed Communist indoctrination.

Waters said that men from other companies also were taken away on trucks suddenly but he did not know the number.

Reds Holding Back

A sergeant from Indiana said the Reds are holding back at least seven men from camp 1 at Chongsong who were convicted of "crimes" just before the armistice.

Sgt. Carl R. Head of Evansville said: "the Chinese told us seven men had been sentenced.

Paltz POW Died In Prison Camp

Cpl. Richard A. Winnie, nephew of Marshall Winnie, New Paltz, was identified by the Defense Department in Washington today as one of 206 additional Americans reported by the Communists to have died in enemy prison camps.

The families of all Americans on the lists supplied by the Reds have been told the information given them cannot be verified and that the men are still officially listed as missing in action.

With today's list the Pentagon has made public the names of 795 of the 1,022 U. S. servicemen said by the enemy to have died in Communist hands.

Federal Printing Office Employe Identified as Red

Edward Rotschild Named as Onetime Member of Communist Party; Wife Also Cited

Washington, Aug. 17 (AP)—A government printing office employe identified a fellow worker, Edward Rothschild, face-to-face today as a onetime member of the Communist Party.

James Phillips, a bookbinding machine operator, told Senate investigators that Rothschild has no direct access to secret material in the government printing plant but could easily get such material from other workers.

Phillips confronted the slightly built, pipe-smoking Rothschild at a hearing by the Senate Investigations Subcommittee, which is looking for evidence that secret material in the government printing office has been leaked to the Communists.

Phillips testified he first met Rothschild in 1938. He identified Rothschild as one of 25 or 30 persons who attended a meeting in a private home to organize a Communist cell in the government printing office.

Tried to Organize Cell

Later, Phillips said, Rothschild and a Fred Sillers approached him on the street and asked him in a "threatening and belligerent" attitude whether he was for or against their efforts to organize such a cell.

Philips said he thought it over and gave them their answer by going before the House Committee on Un-American Activities, then headed by Rep. Dies (D-Tex.), and testifying about the whole affair.

Phillips also testified he once saw another fellow worker, Bertha Lomax, try to leave the government printing office with secret material in her pocket.

That employe continued to work at the printing office for three months after she was caught, Phillips said.

Chairman McCarthy (R-Wis.) commented that the incident showed how easy it would be for a G. P. O. employe to come into possession of classified material. He added that the Lomax woman wouldn't have been caught if Phillips hadn't seen her take the material.

Wife Active Worker

Earlier, a former FBI undercover agent identified Rothschild's wife, Esther, as an active worker for Communist party organization in the 1940's.

Mrs. Mary Markward of Silver Spring, Md., who said she associated with Communists and reported to the FBI, pointed to Mrs. Rothschild at a Senate hearing and said she "most definitely" knew her in the Communist movement.

Under questioning, Mrs. Markward said she could not say, however, whether Edward Rothschild, husband of Mrs. Rothschild, was a member of the Communist party.

Mrs. Markward was the first witness in public hearings by the Senate Investigations Subcommittee into alleged leaking of secret data from the government's printing plant.

Chairman McCarthy (R.-Wis.) said at the outset the matter is one of alleged espionage."

"If the testimony that has been given previously (in secret session) is true, then there is a very serious question of espionage," McCarthy said. "If not, of course—"

He did not finish the sentence.

Albany Man Held In Wife Slaying

Took Body to Cellar, Then Reported That She Had Run Away

Albany, Aug. 17 (AP)—A 25-year-old steelworker today was charged with first-degree murder in the death of his wife, whose nude body was found in the cellar of their home.

District Attorney Julian B. Erway said Eugene Shaw choked his wife Rosemary, 21, Aug. 7, after she threatened to leave him.

The soldier son of a family who lived in the same house discovered the body yesterday when he went to the basement to look for a tire.

Shaw works for the Allegheny Ludlum Steel Corp. The couple had two children.

Erway and John P. Tuffey, acting police chief, said Shaw told them he had killed his wife.

Pushed Woman to Floor

They quoted him as saying she had threatened to leave him and he pushed her, causing her to fall to the floor. Then, Shaw told police, she stood up and he seized her by the throat and "choked her until she turned blue."

The authorities said Shaw told them he carried his wife's body to the cellar and reported to her parents that she had run away.

He reported his wife missing to police, they said, and obtained a warrant from children's court, charging her with desertion.

Mossadegh Holds Power; Pro-Royal Coup Is Crushed

Young Ruler, Empress Flee to Iraq; Search For Rebel Leader Now Underway

Tehran, Iran, Aug. 17 (AP) — Aged Premier Mohammed Mossadegh held supreme power in Iran today after crushing a bloodless attempt to unseat him by supporters of Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi.

The young ruler and his beautiful Empress Soraya fled to neighboring Iraq and Communist mobs screamed for an end to the monarchy.

Acting swiftly in the wake of the attempt against him early Sunday, Mossadegh jailed top leaders of his opposition and dissolved the remnant of the Parliament. Though the 34-year-old monarch had not abdicated, the government was believed readying a regency council to take over his powers.

The leader of the coup attempt, Maj. Gen. Fazellah Zahedi, hid in the hills. In a statement to newsmen he claimed the shah had given him an imperial decree ousting Mossadegh and proclaiming Zahedi premier.

Police and troops, armed with rifles and Sten guns, started a determined hunt for the rebel leader. Tehran radio broadcast orders from Mossadegh to customs and frontier forces to prevent his escape abroad at any cost.

Tension lessened in Tehran today as truckloads of armed troops and Sherman tanks called out by Mossadegh rumbled back to their barracks and bases. Yesterday the city had bristled with troops protecting the government against their titular commander in chief, the shah.

Stone Monarch Portraits

Along the capital's main streets today shopowners cleared away broken glass left by anti-shah demonstrators who stoned the monarch's portraits in shopwindows last night.

The city's Churchill avenue was without the last of its street signs. The rest were torn down in previous anti-British riots. The last one was ripped down last night by the demonstrators as a tip-off to their defiance of their pro-western ruler.

The mob of Communists and Mossadegh supporters—more than 100,000 strong—had packed the capital's main Parliament Square last night, howling for the ruler's blood. Banners demanded "death to the Shah" and "end the dynasty."

The meeting bawled assent to a demand for a regency by Foreign Minister Hossein Fatemi, who was seized by the coup-attempting imperial guards and held for six and a half hours in a palace strongroom. Fatemi in a newspaper blast called the Shah a "snake" who had "robbed the property and chastity of the people."

There was no immediate statement from the Shah in Baghdad. He and his queen flew in his private plane from a Caspian Sea resort in North Iran where they had been vacationing. They arrived in the Iraq capital unheralded and went into seclusion in a government guest house.

U. S. Embassy officials warned Americans to stay off Iran streets. Embassy offices were closed yesterday.

The disturbances brought out the usual rash of "Yankee go home" signs. This time the daubing was done by day as the police looked the other way. Previously the slogans have gone up under cover of night.

Feels U.S. Aid Cannot Do Full Job

Says Other Measures Are Necessary to Assist All Free Nations of World

Washington, Aug. 17 (AP)—President Eisenhower told Congress today western nations should strive for greater self-help toward collective security because American aid "cannot do the whole job."

His report reviewed the mutual security program for the six months ended last June 30. It said Soviet Russia continues a serious threat to peace and that U. S. aid to check Communist expansion now is shifting in emphasis from Europe to Asia and the Pacific.

"While it is clear that the strength needed by other free nations cannot be developed and maintained without substantial American assistance," the report declared, "it is equally clear that the mutual security program alone cannot do the whole job.

Mentions Three Steps

"Other measures are necessary, and it is important that the mutual security program and our foreign relations as a whole be conducted in such a way as to facilitate the taking of these measures."

Ratification of the European Defense Community treaty, trade expansion, and greater investment of private capital in underdeveloped countries were three steps the President mentioned.

Eisenhower limited his own remarks to a two-sentence letter of transmittal saying America's safety is "inextricably tied in with the security and well-being of other free nations." By forwarding the report to Congress, however, he endorsed it in effect.

The report said during the current fiscal year ending June 30, 1954, the Foreign Operations Administration (FOA), which recently absorbed the Mutual Security Agency, will have $6,600,000,000 to spend or obligate, including 4½ billions of new money.

"In drawing up the new fiscal year's program," it said, "emphasis was shifted more toward Asia and the Pacific. Including the special assistance for Indochina, about 37 per cent of the new funds for the new 1954 program will be for Asia, compared with 14 per cent in the previous fiscal year. The European program will drop from 73 per cent of the total funds in 1953 to 50 per cent in 1954."

"The Soviet Union retains the capacity for aggression," the report declared, "and it has demonstrated aggressive intentions on numerous occasions in the recent past. Its future intentions remain an uncertain quantity."

Military Shipments Higher

The report said American military shipments were about 70 per cent higher in value in the first six months of 1953 than in the previous half year. Western Europe's production of military items increased four-fold for the

Inoculate Persons In This Area From Mt. Tremper Camp

Gamma Globulin Obtained For 17 Junior Staff Members and Two or Three Youths

Arrangements were being completed this morning by the Ulster County Health Department to inoculate approximately 20 children and adolescents from Camp Wyandot, Mt. Tremper, who remained in this area following the closing of the camp on Aug. 6 due to a polio outbreak.

Dr. Dudley W. Hargrave, county health commissioner, said today he believes he has obtained enough gamma globulin for the 17 junior staff members who stayed behind as part of a skeleton crew, as well as two or three children who remained in the area with their parents.

New York city health authorities on Friday began distribution of enough gamma globulin to inoculate about 275 children and staff members under 20 years of age who returned to that city.

Three cases of polio were reported among the campers. One victim died at the Benedictine Hospital last week, and two others were hospitalized, one of them having sufficiently recovered to be sent home.

Previous Inoculations

The Ulster County Health Department previously had administered 32 inoculations at Camp

Boy With Cancer Favors President Over Cowboy Idol

Denver, Aug. 17 (AP)—To 6-year-old Paul Henry Haley, who is dying of cancer, President Eisenhower is "a bigger and better man" than Hopalong Cassidy.

Now, to those who aren't parents of small boys, that may sound incredible.

But ordinarily a president doesn't cut much ice when children match him up with Holalong.

Not so with Paul. Dwight Eisenhower is the hero of his tragically-foreshortened life.

That's the result of a surprise visit the President paid Paul yesterday.

It started when Eisenhower picked up the Rocky Mountain News before church. There was a picture of cowboy-outfitted Paul, his arm around his mother, Jean. The story was in the form of a letter by reporter David Stolberg.

Comes Unannounced

"I'm writing this story to you, Mr. President, for a young fellow who hasn't learned to write," it said in part.

"He wants to see you, Ike, and although he doesn't know it, that's his dying wish . . . he may live as long as two months, at most 18, doctors say."

The reporter said Paul is ill of cancer.

Eisenhower decided to see Paul. And he did, unannounced.

Maybe there has been a more astonished man than Paul's stepfather, when he answered the door wearing dungarees, but it's doubtful.

As Paul, wide-eyed and unbelieving walked into the living room, the President flashed his smile and said, "Paul, I understand you wanted to see me." Paul was flabbergasted.

They visited, Paul and the President, about five minutes. Then Paul got to inspect the presidential limousine.

The President told him he had a grandson about Paul's age—5-year-old Dwight Eisenhower II.

Family Is Grateful

Afterward, Paul talked about the car.

"It was nice and cool," he re-

Armory Program Will Include Talk, Two Movies; Music Also Planned

Due homage to those who helped pave the way to the Allied victory in the Pacific marking the end of World War 2 will be paid during tonight's big VJ Day celebration.

Highlighting the celebration will be a parade from the Academy Green to the New York State Armory on Manor avenue where the ceremonies will be held.

The parade will form at 7:15 o'clock tonight at the Academy Green in front of the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Robert J. Funcheon, chairman of the VJ Day celebration, has issued a cordial invitation to all veterans of the armed forces to join the local veterans organizations and the 156th Field Artillery Battalion to participate in the parade.

Others in Parade

Besides the Guard Battalion, the following organizations also will participate in tonight's parade:

Joyce-Schirick Post, 1386, Veterans of Foreign Wars; Post 150, American Legion; 40 and 8; Local 215, American Federation of Musicians; Chemical Warfare Service Veterans Association; the Regular Veterans Association of New York State and the Ulster County Marine Corps League.

Russia Appears Assured Of Seat at Korean Parley

United Nations, N. Y., Aug. 17 (AP)—Russia appeared assured today of a seat at the forthcoming Korean political conference—if her satellites North Korea and Communist China want her there. India's chances of being asked to the parley dimmed, however.

Diplomats, gathering for the UN general assembly beginning this afternoon, freely predicted approval of a carefully worded western resolution tossing the issue of Soviet participation to the Communist side.

Two British commonwealth countries — Australia and New Zealand—came up with this formula yesterday to patch up part of the split between the United States and Britain. Both agreed to support it.

The Anglo-American differences over the proposed inclusion of India at the conference table, however, remained as great as ever, and it was doubtful whether India could win a two-thirds majority in the 60-nations assembly.

U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. said frankly yesterday that the United States would not vote for a British-sponsored resolution to include India in the conference.

Lodge insisted Indian membership would not be in accordance with the terms of the armistice agreement, which, in the U. S. view, calls for representation only of fighting participants in the conflict. India had only an ambulance unit in Korea and has frequently claimed neutrality.

Some diplomatic quarters predicted that India might withdraw her name in view of the strong U. S. opposition. Indian delegate V. K. Krishna Menon already has declared his country is not a "candidate" for a place at the conference.

The resolution on the participation of Russia merely calls on the Assembly to recommend that the Soviet Union take part "provided the other side desires it."

Lodge contended this was in line with his repeated demands that Russia must go as a representative of the Communists, if she went at all. He has insisted that Russia could not sit on the UN side or as a neutral.

British diplomats feel that the Russians would not go to the conference as representatives of the Red countries, which have been branded as aggressors by the UN. This new formula, however, does not say specifically that Russia would be on one side or the other and it was felt by the British that it might be acceptable to all concerned.

The only immediate objection came from Col. Ben Limb, South Korea's representative at the UN. He said the resolution should make plain that Russia would represent the Communist side.

Truck Hits Guard Posts and Tips Over on Side

The front end and wood racks of a truck were damaged when it struck two guard rail posts and tipped over on its side along the Onteora Trail near the Bostock road intersection at Ashokan about 3:30 a. m. today, the sheriff's office reported.

The driver, Charles Schermerhorn, 20, of Gilboa, was not injured, according to the report. He told Earl Conro, county identification officer, that he went to sleep at the wheel. Schermerhorn was returning to Gilboa after delivering a load of cauliflower to New York city.

Record Quake Disaster

This scene of the rubble of devastation at Zakinthos, Greece, is a record of the worse series of earthquakes to shake modern man. Over 1,000 persons are believed dead in the tremors that shook western Greece and hit hardest in the Ionian Islands. U.S. and British rescue teams have come into help the 4,000 survivors who may be prey to the pestilence that can follow disaster. (NEA Radio Telephoto).

Tractor-Trailers Crash, One Lands in Ditch

One of two tractor trailers involved in a collision on Route 9W north of Kingston about 7:15 a. m. Sunday ran off the highway, knocked down a large sign post and landed in a ditch near the Mt. Marion road intersection, state police reported.

The vehicle was driven by Theodore B. McConnell, 36, of Rome, troopers said, and it left the highway on a curve after colliding with the rear wheel of another tractor trailer, which was operated by George Hoff, 30, of Highland. No personal injury was reported.

Life as Chinese Prisoner Told by AP Photographer

(Editor's Note: Frank Noel, Associated Press photographer, is a free man again after more than 32 months as a prisoner of the Chinese Reds in North Korea. Now in Tokyo for medical and dental treatment necessitated by his long captivity, Noel has collaborated with AP Correspondent Olen Clements to tell of some of the things he and his fellow Americans saw and endured as prisoners of war. This is the first of three articles.)

By FRANK NOEL
As Told to Olen Clements

Tokyo, Aug. 17 (AP)—Life as a prisoner of the Chinese Communists was a thing of doubt and fear—doubt of what our captors would do to us next, and fear that an incautious word might be overheard by some fellow prisoners who had become an informer.

There is a strange thing about all the Communists I have met. They trust no one—especially their fellow Communists. Somehow, they managed to instill this same feeling of distrust into their prisoners, even though those prisoners had fought bravely side by side before being captured.

Some few men turned informers. Others, in the constant questioning by the Communists, said things the Communists did not like.

As a result, lots of us went into the "hole"—a cell in which a man could neither stand nor stretch.

Slept in Own Filth

One particularly bad hole was reserved for prisoners the Reds hated most. When you went into that hole, you stayed for weeks without ever leaving it, even to go to the latrine. You sat and slept in your own filth.

In winter you froze, day and night; in summer you sweltered. A little food was thrown in once in a whole, and a Chinese guard was on duty at all times.

Many of us spent days, weeks, months, in the hole, simply as punishment for not thinking the way the Communists wanted us to think.

A Red prison is one of the cruelest forms of torture ever devised by man.

There are still Americans up there—some of them driven insane in prison.

Driving Point

I am sure there will be some of them there when the Chinese say repatriation has been finished. These men will be a club which the Reds will hold over our heads in the post-armistice political conference.

I was captured Nov. 30, 1950. In

Washington, Aug. 17 (AP)—A government printing office employe identified a fellow worker, Edward Rothschild, face-to-face today as a onetime member of the Communist Party.

James Phillips, a bookbinding machine operator, told Senate investigators that Rothschild has no direct access to secret material in the government printing plant but could easily get such material from other workers.

Phillips confronted the slightly built, pipe-smoking Rothschild at a hearing by the Senate Investigations Subcommittee, which is looking for evidence that secret material in the government printing office has been leaked to the Communists.

Phillips testified he first met Rothschild in 1938. He identified Rothschild as one of 25 or 30 persons who attended a meeting in a private home to organize a Communist cell in the government printing office.

Tried to Organize Cell

Later, Phillips said, Rothschild and a Fred Sillers approached him on the street and asked him in a "threatening and belligerent" attitude whether he was for or against their efforts to organize such a cell.

Philips said he thought it over and gave them their answer by going before the House Committee on Un-American Activities, then headed by Rep. Dies (D-Tex.), and testifying about the whole affair.

Phillips also testified he once saw another fellow worker, Bertha Lomax, try to leave the government printing office with secret material in her pocket.

That employe continued to work at the printing office for three months after she was caught, Phillips said.

Chairman McCarthy (R-Wis.) commented that the incident showed how easy it would be for a G. P. O. employe to come into possession of classified material. He added that the Lomax woman wouldn't have been caught if Phillips hadn't seen her take the material.

Wife Active Worker

Earlier, a former FBI undercover agent identified Rothschild's wife, Esther, as an active worker for Communist party organization in the 1940's.

Mrs. Mary Markward of Silver Spring, Md., who said she associated with Communists and reported to the FBI, pointed to Mrs. Rothschild at a Senate hearing and said she "most definitely" knew her in the Communist movement.

Under questioning, Mrs. Markward said she could not say, however, whether Edward Rothschild, husband of Mrs. Rothschild, was a member of the Communist party.

Mrs. Markward was the first witness in public hearings by the Senate Investigations Subcommittee into alleged leaking of secret data from the government's printing plant.

Chairman McCarthy (R.-Wis.) said at the outset the matter is one of alleged espionage."

"If the testimony that has been given previously (in secret session) is true, then there is a very serious question of espionage," McCarthy said. "If not, of course—"

He did not finish the sentence.

Truck Hits Guard Posts and Tips Over on Side

The front end and wood racks of a truck were damaged when it struck two guard rail posts and tipped over on its side along the Onteora Trail near the Bostock road intersection at Ashokan about 3:30 a. m. today, the sheriff's office reported.

The driver, Charles Schermerhorn, 20, of Gilboa, was not injured, according to the report. He told Earl Conro, county identification officer, that he went to sleep at the wheel. Schermerhorn was returning to Gilboa after delivering a load of cauliflower to New York city.

Mossadegh Holds Power; Pro-Royal Coup Is Crushed

Young Ruler, Empress Flee to Iraq; Search For Rebel Leader Now Underway

Tehran, Iran, Aug. 17 (AP) — Aged Premier Mohammed Mossadegh held supreme power in Iran today after crushing a bloodless attempt to unseat him by supporters of Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi.

The young ruler and his beautiful Empress Soraya fled to neighboring Iraq and Communist mobs screamed for an end to the monarchy.

Acting swiftly in the wake of the attempt against him early Sunday, Mossadegh jailed top leaders of his opposition and dissolved the remnant of the Parliament. Though the 34-year-old monarch had not abdicated, the government was believed readying a regency council to take over his powers.

The leader of the coup attempt, Maj. Gen. Fazellah Zahedi, hid in the hills. In a statement to newsmen he claimed the shah had given him an imperial decree ousting Mossadegh and proclaiming Zahedi premier.

Police and troops, armed with rifles and Sten guns, started a determined hunt for the rebel leader. Tehran radio broadcast orders from Mossadegh to customs and frontier forces to prevent his escape abroad at any cost.

Tension lessened in Tehran today as truckloads of armed troops and Sherman tanks called out by Mossadegh rumbled back to their barracks and bases. Yesterday the city had bristled with troops protecting the government against their titular commander in chief, the shah.

Stone Monarch Portraits

Along the capital's main streets today shopowners cleared away broken glass left by anti-shah demonstrators who stoned the monarch's portraits in shopwindows last night.

The city's Churchill avenue was without the last of its street signs. The rest were torn down in previous anti-British riots. The last one was ripped down last night by the demonstrators as a tip-off to their defiance of their pro-western ruler.

The mob of Communists and Mossadegh supporters—more than 100,000 strong—had packed the capital's main Parliament Square last night, howling for the ruler's blood. Banners demanded "death to the Shah" and "end the dynasty."

The meeting bawled assent to a demand for a regency by Foreign Minister Hossein Fatemi, who was seized by the coup-attempting imperial guards and held for six and a half hours in a palace strongroom. Fatemi in a newspaper blast called the Shah a "snake" who had "robbed the property and chastity of the people."

There was no immediate statement from the Shah in Baghdad. He and his queen flew in his private plane from a Caspian Sea resort in North Iran where they had been vacationing. They arrived in the Iraq capital unheralded and went into seclusion in a government guest house.

U. S. Embassy officials warned Americans to stay off Iran streets. Embassy offices were closed yesterday.

The disturbances brought out the usual rash of "Yankee go home" signs. This time the daubing was done by day as the police looked the other way. Previously the slogans have gone up under cover of night.

Record Quake Disaster

This scene of the rubble of devastation at Zakinthos, Greece, is a record of the worse series of earthquakes to shake modern man. Over 1,000 persons are believed dead in the tremors that shook western Greece and hit hardest in the Ionian Islands. U.S. and British rescue teams have come into help the 4,000 survivors who may be prey to the pestilence that can follow disaster. (NEA Radio Telephoto).

Feels U.S. Aid Cannot Do Full Job

Says Other Measures Are Necessary to Assist All Free Nations of World

Washington, Aug. 17 (AP)—President Eisenhower told Congress today western nations should strive for greater self-help toward collective security because American aid "cannot do the whole job."

His report reviewed the mutual security program for the six months ended last June 30. It said Soviet Russia continues a serious threat to peace and that U. S. aid to check Communist expansion now is shifting in emphasis from Europe to Asia and the Pacific.

"While it is clear that the strength needed by other free nations cannot be developed and maintained without substantial American assistance," the report declared, "it is equally clear that the mutual security program alone cannot do the whole job.

Mentions Three Steps

"Other measures are necessary, and it is important that the mutual security program and our foreign relations as a whole be conducted in such a way as to facilitate the taking of these measures."

Ratification of the European Defense Community treaty, trade expansion, and greater investment of private capital in underdeveloped countries were three steps the President mentioned.

Eisenhower limited his own remarks to a two-sentence letter of transmittal saying America's safety is "inextricably tied in with the security and well-being of other free nations." By forwarding the report to Congress, however, he endorsed it in effect.

The report said during the current fiscal year ending June 30, 1954, the Foreign Operations Administration (FOA), which recently absorbed the Mutual Security Agency, will have $6,600,000,000 to spend or obligate, including 4½ billions of new money.

"In drawing up the new fiscal year's program," it said, "emphasis was shifted more toward Asia and the Pacific. Including the special assistance for Indochina, about 37 per cent of the new funds for the new 1954 program will be for Asia, compared with 14 per cent in the previous fiscal year. The European program will drop from 73 per cent of the total funds in 1953 to 50 per cent in 1954."

"The Soviet Union retains the capacity for aggression," the report declared, "and it has demonstrated aggressive intentions on numerous occasions in the recent past. Its future intentions remain an uncertain quantity."

Military Shipments Higher

The report said American military shipments were about 70 per cent higher in value in the first six months of 1953 than in the previous half year. Western Europe's production of military items increased four-fold for the

Inoculate Persons In This Area From Mt. Tremper Camp

Gamma Globulin Obtained For 17 Junior Staff Members and Two or Three Youths

Arrangements were being completed this morning by the Ulster County Health Department to inoculate approximately 20 children and adolescents from Camp Wyandot, Mt. Tremper, who remained in this area following the closing of the camp on Aug. 6 due to a polio outbreak.

Dr. Dudley W. Hargrave, county health commissioner, said today he believes he has obtained enough gamma globulin for the 17 junior staff members who stayed behind as part of a skeleton crew, as well as two or three children who remained in the area with their parents.

New York city health authorities on Friday began distribution of enough gamma globulin to inoculate about 275 children and staff members under 20 years of age who returned to that city.

Three cases of polio were reported among the campers. One victim died at the Benedictine Hospital last week, and two others were hospitalized, one of them having sufficiently recovered to be sent home.

Previous Inoculations

Boy With Cancer Favors President Over Cowboy Idol

Denver, Aug. 17 (AP)—To 6-year-old Paul Henry Haley, who is dying of cancer, President Eisenhower is "a bigger and better man" than Hopalong Cassidy.

Now, to those who aren't parents of small boys, that may sound incredible.

But ordinarily a president doesn't cut much ice when children match him up with Holalong.

Not so with Paul. Dwight Eisenhower is the hero of his tragically-foreshortened life.

That's the result of a surprise visit the President paid Paul yesterday.

It started when Eisenhower picked up the Rocky Mountain News before church. There was a picture of cowboy-outfitted Paul, his arm around his mother, Jean. The story was in the form of a letter by reporter David Stolberg.

Comes Unannounced

"I'm writing this story to you, Mr. President, for a young fellow who hasn't learned to write," it said in part.

"He wants to see you, Ike, and although he doesn't know it, that's his dying wish . . . he may live as long as two months, at most 18, doctors say."

The reporter said Paul is ill of cancer.

Eisenhower decided to see Paul. And he did, unannounced.

Maybe there has been a more astonished man than Paul's stepfather, when he answered the door wearing dungarees, but it's doubtful.

As Paul, wide-eyed and unbelieving walked into the living room, the President flashed his smile and said, "Paul, I understand you wanted to see me." Paul was flabbergasted.

They visited, Paul and the President, about five minutes. Then Paul got to inspect the presidential limousine.

The President told him he had a grandson about Paul's age—5-year-old Dwight Eisenhower II.

Family Is Grateful

Afterward, Paul talked about the car.

"It was nice and cool," he re-

Tractor-Trailers Crash, One Lands in Ditch

One of two tractor trailers involved in a collision on Route 9W north of Kingston about 7:15 a. m. Sunday ran off the highway, knocked down a large sign post and landed in a ditch near the Mt. Marion road intersection, state police reported.

The vehicle was driven by Theodore B. McConnell, 36, of Rome, troopers said, and it left the highway on a curve after colliding with the rear wheel of another tractor trailer, which was operated by George Hoff, 30, of Highland. No personal injury was reported.

Life as Chinese Prisoner Told by AP Photographer

(Editor's Note: Frank Noel, Associated Press photographer, is a free man again after more than 32 months as a prisoner of the Chinese Reds in North Korea. Now in Tokyo for medical and dental treatment necessitated by his long captivity, Noel has collaborated with AP Correspondent Olen Clements to tell of some of the things he and his fellow Americans saw and endured as prisoners of war. This is the first of three articles.)

By FRANK NOEL
As Told to Olen Clements

Tokyo, Aug. 17 (AP)—Life as a prisoner of the Chinese Communists was a thing of doubt and fear—doubt of what our captors would do to us next, and fear that an incautious word might be overheard by some fellow prisoners who had become an informer.

There is a strange thing about all the Communists I have met. They trust no one—especially their fellow Communists. Somehow, they managed to instill this same feeling of distrust into their prisoners, even though those prisoners had fought bravely side by side before being captured.

Some few men turned informers. Others, in the constant questioning by the Communists, said things the Communists did not like.

As a result, lots of us went into the "hole"—a cell in which a man could neither stand nor stretch.

Slept in Own Filth

One particularly bad hole was reserved for prisoners the Reds hated most. When you went into that hole, you stayed for weeks without ever leaving it, even to go to the latrine. You sat and slept in your own filth.

In winter you froze, day and night; in summer you sweltered. A little food was thrown in once in a whole, and a Chinese guard was on duty at all times.

Many of us spent days, weeks, months, in the hole, simply as punishment for not thinking the way the Communists wanted us to think.

A Red prison is one of the cruelest forms of torture ever devised by man.

There are still Americans up there—some of them driven insane in prison.

Driving Point

I am sure there will be some of them there when the Chinese say repatriation has been finished. These men will be a club which the Reds will hold over our heads in the post-armistice political conference.

I was captured Nov. 30, 1950. In

Explosion Kills Two

New York, Aug. 17 (AP)—An explosion blew down the wall of an officer's home at the Brooklyn Navy Yard last night, killing two men and injuring nine others. The blast victims included Navy Yard firemen and the duty officer who had been summoned to check a short circuit in the frame and mortar house. While looking around they were caught by the explosion. Dead were two firemen, Francis Conklin, 50, of Ozone Park, Queens, and Frank Licotta, 55, of Hollis, Queens. Shortly before reports of the explosion were received an earth tremor was recorded by the Columbia University seismograph at Palisades, about 25 miles away, and by the Fordham University seismograph in the Bronx. Seismologists could not say definitely whether an earthquake or the explosion caused the tremor.

Schuster, 24, was shot down on the street near his Brooklyn home a few weeks after he spotted Willie Sutton, notorious bank bandit, and notified police. Subsequently Police Commissioner George P. Saved From Drowning At High Falls Lake

A Jamaica, L. I., youth was saved from drowning when he was pulled from a private lake at Camp Toledo at High Falls by the camp's swimming instructor about 5:10 p. m. Sunday, the sheriff's office reported.

Frank Bank, 17, of 153-11 109 Drive, Jamaica, apparently suffered an attack of cramps or illness while he was swimming, according to the report which was relayed to the sheriff's office through the telephone service assistant.

After the youth went under water, he was pulled out by Howard Rosen, camp swimming instructor and life guard.

Bank was taken to the Benedictine Hospital by Moylan's ambulance. His condition was reported today as "improving."

The sheriff's office, ambulance, and Dr. Anthony Tocco were notified when the first report, telephoned to the telephone operator, erroneously stated that a "drowning" had occurred at the camp.

County Investigator Arthur H. Brown and Deputy Charles McCullough were dispatched to investigate.

The camp, on the Bruceville road, is a boys and girls camp operated by Saul Stein. It is believed that Bank was employed there as a kitchen helper.

Woodstock

Jane Lloyd-Jones Has Star Role in Playhouse Drama

Woodstock, Aug. 17 — Jane Lloyd-Jones, Broadway and TV actress and Woodstock resident, has been signed by Woodstock Playhouse director Michael Howard to play the role of Sally Bowles in I Am a Camera, the drama which will open at the Woodstock Playhouse Tuesday, Aug. 25.

Miss Lloyd-Jones, who appeared in New York in The Grey-Eyed People this past season, has been seen in previous Woodstock Playhouse productions of The Respectful Prostitute and Tovarich. She has returned to Woodstock from the Chagrin Falls Summer Theatre in Ohio where she played the role of Gwendolyn in Wilde's The Importance of Being Earnest.

Set in a Berlin boardinghouse in 1930, the eve of Nazidom, I Am a Camera is playwright John van Druten's dramatization of Christopher Isherwood's The Berlin Stories, painting the tinseled, Bohemian world of lost young people in 1930. Isherwood himself is a character in the play, and he is the camera, observing and recording the events taking place and believing himself, like a lens, untouched by the corruption around him. Before he realizes it, however, he is involved with the fascinating and amoral Sally Bowles. He also discovers that he cannot keep himself from emotional involvement with the horror of Nazi encroachment and the savage persecution of the Jews. The play continues at the Playhouse through Sunday, Aug. 30.

Supporting Jane Lloyd-Jones as the excitement-seeking Sally Bowles is the Playhouse company. The cast includes: Willard Sage, Jo Rabb, John Hallow as Fritz; Maude Scheerer as Fraulein Schneider; Joe Calloway as Clive; and Bess Johnson as Mrs. Watson-Courneidge.

McDonald Brown, Playhouse designer, contributes the set, Sally Bowles' room in Fraulein Schneider's the Berlin boardinghouse.

Bandit Kills Mechanic

New York, Aug. 17 (AP)—A bandit, gun in hand, walked into a Queens taxi garage early today and ordered the cashier to open the safe. Outside, another bandit stood watch. A mechanic, Leroy Grover, 23, unaware that the robbery was going on, got in a taxi to move it to a post outside where a driver was to pick it up. The lookout bandit shot three times, killing Grover instantly. Police said the lookout apparently thought Grover was going for help.

Bus Strike in Syracuse

Syracuse, Aug. 17 (AP)—AFL bus drivers struck without warning today, but despite huge traffic jams and taxi-shortages, early reports indicated most stranded workers reached their jobs. Spokesmen for the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railroad and Motor Coach Employes said the strike had not been authorized, and urged drivers to return to work in this industrial city of 220,000 persons in central New York.

Rains Give Little Help

Hong Kong, Aug. 17 (AP)—Typhoon rains have made a wet place of Hong Kong in the past week but they haven't helped a continuing water shortage much. The overcrowded British colony on Communist China's doorstep was cut to five hours of water daily today, from seven and one-half hours. It was the third cut in a month. The water department said the recent downpours had added only a week's supply to the reservoirs.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Aug. 17 (AP)—The stock market edged lower today in a quiet manner. With only a handful of exceptions, both gains and losses were held to small fractions.

Railroads, with the exception of a gain of more than a point in Santa Fe, were slightly lower. Going down with the carriers were most steels, motors, coppers, oils, chemicals, radio-television issues, and utilities.

Aircrafts and air lines held steady together with distillers and motion pictures.

Lower stocks included Southern Railway, American Telephone, Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Anaconda Copper, Dow Chemical, and Radio Corp.

Chrysler appeared on the tape with a cash sale of 4,000 shares at 70¾ up 1½ and then a regular way trade of 4,000 shares was recorded at 69⅜ up ⅛.

A block of 4,900 shares of Pan American World Airways went at 9¼ off ¼.

Federal Printing

young woman in a gray-and-black striped suit, has appeared as an anti-Communist witness in previous proceedings including the prosecution of Communist leaders for conspiracy to advocate the over throw of the government by force.

She testified today she was active in Communist affairs here—reporting regularly to the FBI—from 1943 until 1949.

Beginning in 1945, she said, she attended about a dozen Communist-organized meetings with Mrs. Rothschild, a pale, unsmiling woman who looked steadily at the witness but said nothing when she was called forward for identification, McCarthy asked Mrs. Markward:

"Did you understand that her husband (Edward Rothschild) was also a member of the Communist party?"

Mrs. Markward said Mrs. Rothschild never actually came out and said her husband was a party member. But she added that Mrs. Rothschild never indicated her husband was "hostile" to the work she herself was doing.

"I cannot personally testify to that," she said.

Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill.) was the only subcommittee member present besides McCarthy. He asked Mrs. Markward whether Mrs. Rothschild was "in your judgment a member of the Communist party."

"I knew her as a member of the Communist Political Association," Mrs. Markward replied, referring to her own acknowledged membership in the organization that briefly supplanted the Communist party during World War 2.

Reunify Germany

mit free elections throughout Germany. Moscow called for "wide participation by Democratic organizations"—obviously a reference to the Communist free German trade Union Federation and other Red-controlled groups.

Russia offered to give up more than three billion dollars worth of German manufactured goods now earmarked for her from East Germany, while proposing that reparations payments end by Jan. 1 and that the big four powers limit German payment for their occupation costs to 5 per cent of the annual revenues from East and West Germany.

West Germany, with 48 million people, and the Red-ruled Eastern sector, with 18 millions, have been separated since the end of World War 2. In recent months there has been a marked spurt in sentiment for unification.

As western diplomats here and in other capitals saw the Moscow note, the idea was to capitalize on this sentiment in an effort to defeat the Adenauer government, which has been friendly with the western powers.

The three western nations had proposed on July 15—also with an eye on the September elections—that the big four foreign ministers meet in late September to arrange for a German election. The western powers have maintained that this should be arranged by the occupying nations, rather than by the two German governments.

Saved From Drowning At High Falls Lake

A Jamaica, L. I., youth was saved from drowning when he was pulled from a private lake at Camp Toledo at High Falls by the camp's swimming instructor about 5:10 p. m. Sunday, the sheriff's office reported.

Frank Bank, 17, of 153-11 109 Drive, Jamaica, apparently suffered an attack of cramps or illness while he was swimming, according to the report which was relayed to the sheriff's office through the telephone service assistant.

After the youth went under water, he was pulled out by Howard Rosen, camp swimming instructor and life guard.

Bank was taken to the Benedictine Hospital by Moylan's ambulance. His condition was reported today as "improving."

The sheriff's office, ambulance, and Dr. Anthony Tocco were notified when the first report, telephoned to the telephone operator, erroneously stated that a "drowning" had occurred at the camp.

County Investigator Arthur H. Brown and Deputy Charles McCullough were dispatched to investigate.

The camp, on the Bruceville road, is a boys and girls camp operated by Saul Stein. It is believed that Bank was employed there as a kitchen helper.

Jane Lloyd-Jones Has Star Role in Playhouse Drama

Woodstock, Aug. 17 — Jane Lloyd-Jones, Broadway and TV actress and Woodstock resident, has been signed by Woodstock Playhouse director Michael Howard to play the role of Sally Bowles in I Am a Camera, the drama which will open at the Woodstock Playhouse Tuesday, Aug. 25.

Miss Lloyd-Jones, who appeared in New York in The Grey-Eyed People this past season, has been seen in previous Woodstock Playhouse productions of The Respectful Prostitute and Tovarich. She has returned to Woodstock from the Chagrin Falls Summer Theatre in Ohio where she played the role of Gwendolyn in Wilde's The Importance of Being Earnest.

Set in a Berlin boardinghouse in 1930, the eve of Nazidom, I Am a Camera is playwright John van Druten's dramatization of Christopher Isherwood's The Berlin Stories, painting the tinseled, Bohemian world of lost young people in 1930. Isherwood himself is a character in the play, and he is the camera, observing and recording the events taking place and believing himself, like a lens, untouched by the corruption around him. Before he realizes it, however, he is involved with the fascinating and amoral Sally Bowles. He also discovers that he cannot keep himself from emotional involvement with the horror of Nazi encroachment and the savage persecution of the Jews. The play continues at the Playhouse through Sunday, Aug. 30.

Supporting Jane Lloyd-Jones as the excitement-seeking Sally Bowles is the Playhouse company. The cast includes: Willard Sage, Jo Rabb, John Hallow as Fritz; Maude Scheerer as Fraulein Schneider; Joe Calloway as Clive; and Bess Johnson as Mrs. Watson-Courneidge.

McDonald Brown, Playhouse designer, contributes the set, Sally Bowles' room in Fraulein Schneider's the Berlin boardinghouse.

New York, Aug. 17 (AP)—A bandit, gun in hand, walked into a Queens taxi garage early today and ordered the cashier to open the safe. Outside, another bandit stood watch. A mechanic, Leroy Grover, 23, unaware that the robbery was going on, got in a taxi to move it to a post outside where a driver was to pick it up. The lookout bandit shot three times, killing Grover instantly. Police said the lookout apparently thought Grover was going for help.

Rains Give Little Help

Hong Kong, Aug. 17 (AP)—Typhoon rains have made a wet place of Hong Kong in the past week but they haven't helped a continuing water shortage much. The overcrowded British colony on Communist China's doorstep was cut to five hours of water daily today, from seven and one-half hours. It was the third cut in a month. The water department said the recent downpours had added only a week's supply to the reservoirs.

Federal Printing

young woman in a gray-and-black striped suit, has appeared as an anti-Communist witness in previous proceedings including the prosecution of Communist leaders for conspiracy to advocate the over throw of the government by force.

She testified today she was active in Communist affairs here—reporting regularly to the FBI—from 1943 until 1949.

Beginning in 1945, she said, she attended about a dozen Communist-organized meetings with Mrs. Rothschild, a pale, unsmiling woman who looked steadily at the witness but said nothing when she was called forward for identification, McCarthy asked Mrs. Markward:

"Did you understand that her husband (Edward Rothschild) was also a member of the Communist party?"

Mrs. Markward said Mrs. Rothschild never actually came out and said her husband was a party member. But she added that Mrs. Rothschild never indicated her husband was "hostile" to the work she herself was doing.

"I cannot personally testify to that," she said.

Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill.) was the only subcommittee member present besides McCarthy. He asked Mrs. Markward whether Mrs. Rothschild was "in your judgment a member of the Communist party."

"I knew her as a member of the Communist Political Association," Mrs. Markward replied, referring to her own acknowledged membership in the organization that briefly supplanted the Communist party during World War 2.

Reunify Germany

mit free elections throughout Germany. Moscow called for "wide participation by Democratic organizations"—obviously a reference to the Communist free German trade Union Federation and other Red-controlled groups.

Russia offered to give up more than three billion dollars worth of German manufactured goods now earmarked for her from East Germany, while proposing that reparations payments end by Jan. 1 and that the big four powers limit German payment for their occupation costs to 5 per cent of the annual revenues from East and West Germany.

West Germany, with 48 million people, and the Red-ruled Eastern sector, with 18 millions, have been separated since the end of World War 2. In recent months there has been a marked spurt in sentiment for unification.

As western diplomats here and in other capitals saw the Moscow note, the idea was to capitalize on this sentiment in an effort to defeat the Adenauer government, which has been friendly with the western powers.

The three western nations had proposed on July 15—also with an eye on the September elections—that the big four foreign ministers meet in late September to arrange for a German election. The western powers have maintained that this should be arranged by the occupying nations, rather than by the two German governments.

If Peace Talks Fail, Rhee Says U. S. Will Fight

Washington, Aug. 17 (AP)—President Syngman Rhee of South Korea said today he believes that if the Korean peace talks fail "the United States will resume the fight to accomplish the common objective" of unifying his embattled country.

His statement, made in a copyrighted interview with the magazine U. S. News and World Report, came in the wake of one by Walter S. Robertson that the United States has not mapped out a specific course of action if it is necessary for the Americans to walk out of the peace talks.

Robertson is the assistant secretary of state who, as personal representative of President Eisenhower, persuaded Rhee not to obstruct the truce. He agreed that this government will quit the peace talks in 90 days if it appears that the Reds are not negotiating in good faith.

Robertson, in an NBC television interview yesterday, said the United States has not agreed with Rhee to help him in resuming battle unless the Communists break the peace first.

Rhee, in the magazine interview, declared:

1. "I believe the United States will resume the fight in order to accomplish the common objective (of a unified Korea) because the U. S. honor and future security will be at stake. You know the United States is honor bound to reunify Korea."

2. South Korea may leave the peace talks in less time than 90 days "if it is apparent the Communists have no intention of agreeing to the fundamental requirement and merely intend to use the conference for vicious slander and propaganda."

3. "I have informed President Eisenhower that under no circumstances will we accept any neutralization of Korea. All this would mean would be that we would have to lay down our arms and see our friendly allies withdraw, giving the Communists the chance to strike against us at any time of their choice."

Rhee said he does not regard hopefully U. S. efforts to unify North and South Korea by peaceful means.

More Allied POWs Parade to Start

They got one to three years and the Chinese said they would have to serve them before they could go home.

"The guy who got three years was sentenced for hitting a progressive. They called the others instigators."

Head said he knew of three other men in camp 1 who stayed behind voluntarily.

"I think they were afraid to come back. They signed too many things and did too much stuff for the Chinese," he said.

Several POWs told of an unconfirmed report that the Chinese at Camp 1 had planned to hold back 200 men but the Red Cross interceded. Prisoners said the camp had been broken up into three units and all of them left together for Kaesong.

And there were more of the now-familiar stories of hunger and disease in the far northern stockades. Men returning from Camp 1 have described it as a cold hell on the Manchurian border, relating stories of Red brutality, poor food and American informers in their midst.

Different Story

The Red Peiping radio told a different story of life in a prison camp and made it sound almost a vacation.

The broadcast said American prisoners "elected" by other POWs told a Red Cross team at Pyoktong's Camp 5 that they did no work, had their choice of food, and had excellent religious and cultural opportunities.

Peiping said the Chinese had even given each allied POW presents on his birthday.

Freed Americans told a drastically different story.

Repatriates already have described Pyoktong as a bleak and brutal camp with no quarter given.

And other prisoners said returning allied POWs are not telling neutral Red Cross interviewers the truth about camp conditions because of the many eavesdropping Reds.

Meanwhile, there still was no indication when the Reds would release their No. 1 prisoner, U. S. Maj. Gen. William F. Dean. Repatriates have not reported seeing or hearing of Dean, who was captured as he led his 24th Division in the defense of Taejon in 1950.

Carney Takes Oath

Would Give Guard Credit

Albany, Aug. 17 (AP)—The State Education Department proposes that high schools give students academic credit for service in the National Guard. Dr. Lewis A. Wilson, education commissioner, has endorsed the program and encouraged local school districts to adopt it, Maj. Gen. Karl F. Hausauer, commander of the New York National Guard, said Saturday.

132 New Casualties

But this is not enough, the report said, adding America's "partner nations" can constitute a tremendous asset to free world security only if they are "healthy, strong and progressive."

ported. "There was something to put your feet on, and there was a chair. I think it was for a baby."

Mrs. Haley wasn't home when Eisenhower called. Later, she said there just aren't "enough adjectives to describe how grateful we were."

"The President came in and shook my hand," Paul said, a smile on his wan face.

"I'm going out and buy a picture of the President and put it on the wall.

"I've got pictures of Roy Rogers and Hopalong Cassidy, too."

Later Paul went on the radio and paid Eisenhower his supreme tribute: "He's a bigger and better man than Hopalong Cassidy."

The President, if he were listening, must have liked that a great deal.

If Peace Talks Fail, Rhee Says U. S. Will Fight

Washington, Aug. 17 (AP)—President Syngman Rhee of South Korea said today he believes that if the Korean peace talks fail "the United States will resume the fight to accomplish the common objective" of unifying his embattled country.

His statement, made in a copyrighted interview with the magazine U. S. News and World Report, came in the wake of one by Walter S. Robertson that the United States has not mapped out a specific course of action if it is necessary for the Americans to walk out of the peace talks.

Robertson is the assistant secretary of state who, as personal representative of President Eisenhower, persuaded Rhee not to obstruct the truce. He agreed that this government will quit the peace talks in 90 days if it appears that the Reds are not negotiating in good faith.

Robertson, in an NBC television interview yesterday, said the United States has not agreed with Rhee to help him in resuming battle unless the Communists break the peace first.

Rhee, in the magazine interview, declared:

1. "I believe the United States will resume the fight in order to accomplish the common objective (of a unified Korea) because the U. S. honor and future security will be at stake. You know the United States is honor bound to reunify Korea."

2. South Korea may leave the peace talks in less time than 90 days "if it is apparent the Communists have no intention of agreeing to the fundamental requirenfent and merely intend to use the conference for vicious slander and propaganda."

3. "I have informed President Eisenhower that under no circumstances will we accept any neutralization of Korea. All this would mean would be that we would have to lay down our arms and see our friendly allies withdraw, giving the Communists the chance to strike against us at any time of their choice."

Rhee said he does not regard hopefully U. S. efforts to unify North and South Korea by peaceful means.

More Allied POWs Parade to Start

They got one to three years and the Chinese said they would have to serve them before they could go home.

"The guy who got three years was sentenced for hitting a progressive. They called the others instigators."

Head said he knew of three other men in camp 1 who stayed behind voluntarily.

"I think they were afraid to come back. They signed too many things and did too much stuff for the Chinese," he said.

Several POWs told of an unconfirmed report that the Chinese at Camp 1 had planned to hold back 200 men but the Red Cross interceded. Prisoners said the camp had been broken up into three units and all of them left together for Kaesong.

And there were more of the now-familiar stories of hunger and disease in the far northern stockades. Men returning from Camp 1 have described it as a cold hell on the Manchurian border, relating stories of Red brutality, poor food and American informers in their midst.

Different Story

The Red Peiping radio told a different story of life in a prison camp and made it sound almost a vacation.

The broadcast said American prisoners "elected" by other POWs told a Red Cross team at Pyoktong's Camp 5 that they did no work, had their choice of food, and had excellent religious and cultural opportunities.

Peiping said the Chinese had even given each allied POW presents on his birthday.

Freed Americans told a drastically different story.

Repatriates already have described Pyoktong as a bleak and brutal camp with no quarter given.

And other prisoners said returning allied POWs are not telling neutral Red Cross interviewers the truth about camp conditions because of the many eavesdropping Reds.

Meanwhile, there still was no indication when the Reds would release their No. 1 prisoner, U. S. Maj. Gen. William F. Dean. Repatriates have not reported seeing or hearing of Dean, who was captured as he led his 24th Division in the defense of Taejon in 1950.

Carney Takes Oath

Would Give Guard Credit

Albany, Aug. 17 (AP)—The State Education Department proposes that high schools give students academic credit for service in the National Guard. Dr. Lewis A. Wilson, education commissioner, has endorsed the program and encouraged local school districts to adopt it, Maj. Gen. Karl F. Hausauer, commander of the New York National Guard, said Saturday.

132 New Casualties

Washington, Aug. 17 (AP)—The Defense Department today identified 132 additional battle casualties of the Korean war. A new list (No. 879) reported nine killed, 97 wounded, 19 missing in action and seven injured.

"The President came in and shook my hand," Paul said, a smile on his wan face.

"I'm going out and buy a picture of the President and put it on the wall.

"I've got pictures of Roy Rogers and Hopalong Cassidy, too."

Later Paul went on the radio and paid Eisenhower his supreme tribute: "He's a bigger and better man than Hopalong Cassidy."

The President, if he were listening, must have liked that a great deal.

STOPPING WETBACKS

Attorney General Herbert Brownell will visit California soon to study at first hand the problem of "wetbacks." Mexicans who make their way into the United States illegally, some of them by swimming across the Rio Grande, are referred to as wetbacks. They are usually poor, ill-educated people who hope to make a better life for themselves in this country. Frequently they are disappointed or exploited by employers who hire them at rates much lower than other workers will accept.

The wetback problem is a serious one for many reasons. Such entry into the United States is a violation of our immigration laws and when violations succeed a weakness in the system is indicated. The low rate of pay which such workers will accept makes things difficult for Americans who do similar work but who must have higher pay because of their accustomed higher standard of living.

If Mexican farm workers can make their way into the country illegally in such a manner it is possible for criminals and even enemy agents to do so. It may he hoped that Attorney General Brownell will return from his California visit with a new insight into the problem and with some ideas for meeting it.

ALASKA'S FUTURE

There seems to be some concern among Alaskans as to the effect a decline in the defense program might have on the future of Alaska. A great part of the sudden growth of Alaska in recent years may be credited to the building of military installations there. If this building program is cut off Alaska may have to depend on its two largest industries, tourists and fishing. Both are seasonal.

Perhaps one answer to the problem lies in encouragement of private industrial investment in the territory. The $46,000,000 pulp mill being built near Ketchikan is an example of the sort of capital investment Alaska needs.

Steps must be taken to see that the gains made in Alaska under the impetus of the defense program are not dissipated when that program slackens. Alaska is vital to the economy and security of the United States and we will have to solve the problem of how to strengthen the economy of that territory. It is one of the problems which will require speedy attention and action on the part of the administration.

After reading some of those long repetitious speeches by Congressmen we get the impression that frequently the needle must get stuck in that Congressional record.

Gardening is just one back-breaking chore after another. From spring until fall it is nothing but seeds and weeds and planting and panting.

PURGE CONTINUES

The purge in various parts of the world behind the Iron Curtain continues. In North Korea a number of prominent party leaders and government officials have been disposed of in typical Communist fashion. In East Germany the purge has cut down some of the men who were formerly hailed as heroes. The worst crime under the Communist system is to fail and the purges are convincing evidence that these people are considered failures.

If rioting and unrest in East Germany continues Russia may be faced with a perplexing problem. If they remove the government it will appear that they are yielding to pressure. If they do not they will be tolerating failure and police state inefficiency, something they have never tolerated before.

It is impossible to feel any sympathy for those who are purged whatever fate befalls them. They decided to live by a code that called for betrayal of their countries, for suppression of the freedom of their countrymen. Now that the violence they lived by has been turned upon them the world can do more than think it just.

'These Days'

TOO MANY PROMISES

As one goes over the material on Korea, it is shocking to read all the promises that have been made, particularly about unification! As early as December 1948, the United Nations promised "complete independence and unity of Korea." The United States assented to this promise. Yet, the truce separates Korea, between North and South, and if not precisely on the 38th parallel, close enough to arouse suspicion that the war actually served no purpose.

In June 1950, when the North Koreans attacked the South Koreans, the United Nations Security Council pledged "complete independence and unity" for Korea. Warren Austin, our representative in the United Nations, waxed eloquent that Korea should not be permitted to remain "half slave, half free." The General Assembly of the United Nations had voted that Korea be unified under a freely elected government. Trygve Lie, then Secretary General of the United Nations, said in a speech that it would not be enough to drive the Korean Communists beyond the 38th parallel; the country must be "unified and independent" and that the Koreans must be "able freely to select a government of their own choosing."

This general type of promise continued throughout the war in Korea—except for Harry Truman who from the beginning set the 38th parallel as the limit of intervention. In many respects, Truman's public statements were more honest than most because he did not take a position that unification would be achieved by force.

Despite the various statements about unification, as early as October 12, 1950, Syngman Rhee was precluded from governing North Korea, even the conquered territory. A resolution to that effect was introduced by Australia and was approved. After the Wake Island conference between President Truman and General MacArthur, Rhee's position was considerably weakened. Yet a United Nations Commission on Unification and Rehabilitation had been appointed. What kind of unification was not made clear.

One of the most amazing documents in this series is a joint statement issued by President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee in which it is said:

"There can be no thought of appeasement or of rewarding aggression, whether in the Far East or elsewhere" but "we are ready (to) seek an end to hostilities by means of negotiation . . . on the basis of a free and independent Korea."

Yet, aggression is rewarded in the sense that the Chinese Communists, who are the effective aggressors in this war, are actually being supported by Great Britain, France, Canada and other countries in their demand for a seat in the United Nations. Should they get their seat, would it not be evidence that crime does pay?

President Truman, in his reply to the Russian peace proposal (June 1951), said:

"We are ready to join in a peaceful settlement in Korea now just as we have always been. But it must be a real settlement which fully ends the aggression and restores peace and security" to Korea.

It will here be noted that nothing is said in this statement about unification. The Russian peace proposal was made after 1950, when the United States troops were at the Yalu River with all of Korea under their control. The victory had been won by General MacArthur against the North Koreans, but on November 6, 1950, the Chinese Communists intervened and started a new war.

After the Chinese intervention, talk about unification was not so general. For instance, in June 1951, Dean Acheson said that the war was being fought to end aggression and to restore peace. Acheson's attitude, like Trumans, was that if the status quo ante bellum could be restored, it would be enough.

However, President Eisenhower did not take that position. He said in June 1953, that the United States was committed to the principle of the unification of Korea.

Actually, it would seem that too many promises have been made, most of which are not yet known to the American people. What are our commitments to Great Britain or to India? How far have we gone in our negotiations with the North Koreans who represented the Chinese Communists? What have we promised Syngman Rhee in return for his consent to be a good boy for 90 days?

These questions have not been answered. The Far Eastern sub-committee of the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate may know the answers, but they regard them as confidential. Yet, the people do not know and it is their business.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

ITCHING AND NERVOUS TENSION

Most of us, when upset or undergoing an emotional disturbance are not inclined to eat much and may sleep less than usual. There are, on the other hand, individuals who, instead of eating less when emotionally disturbed, actually eat more food, not only at mealtime but eat more and oftener between meals. The eating of food is their particular way of meeting their life problems.

In "Modern Medicine of Canada," Drs. C. D. Calnan and Desmond O'Neill, St. John's Hospital, London, England, state that in some people emotional distress arouses itching. The patient's symptom tends to appear at times of unusual worry or annoyance, particularly if feelings are repressed. The intensity varies with the degree of strain; on release of tension, itching (pruritis) generally subsides.

Emotional disturbances are usually treated by psychiatrists who first point out that the itching is one of the ways nature uses to give relief. By close, patient, sympathetic questioning, the patient usually cooperates by telling his life story and the physician then shows the relation between the life story and the desire to scratch the skin.

In the treatment of 30 cases of itching referred to Drs. Calnan and O'Neill, they found three types of involvement of the skin; an injury to the skin in 10 cases, with excoriations (scratches) in 6 and patches of small pimples in 14. All of the 30 patients had relapses and increase in symptoms during periods of prolonged emotional stress.

While there are various foods and substances floating in the air that can cause itching of the skin, itching caused by the emotions may be diagnosed or recognized by the following:

1.—Onset and course of the itching are related to events calling forth emotions too strong for the patient to handle.

2.—Tension shown in ways other than the itching—diarrhoea or constipation, frequent urination.

3.—Decrease in the itching symptoms or disappearance of skin irritation when the unpleasant situation is mastered or the problem solved.

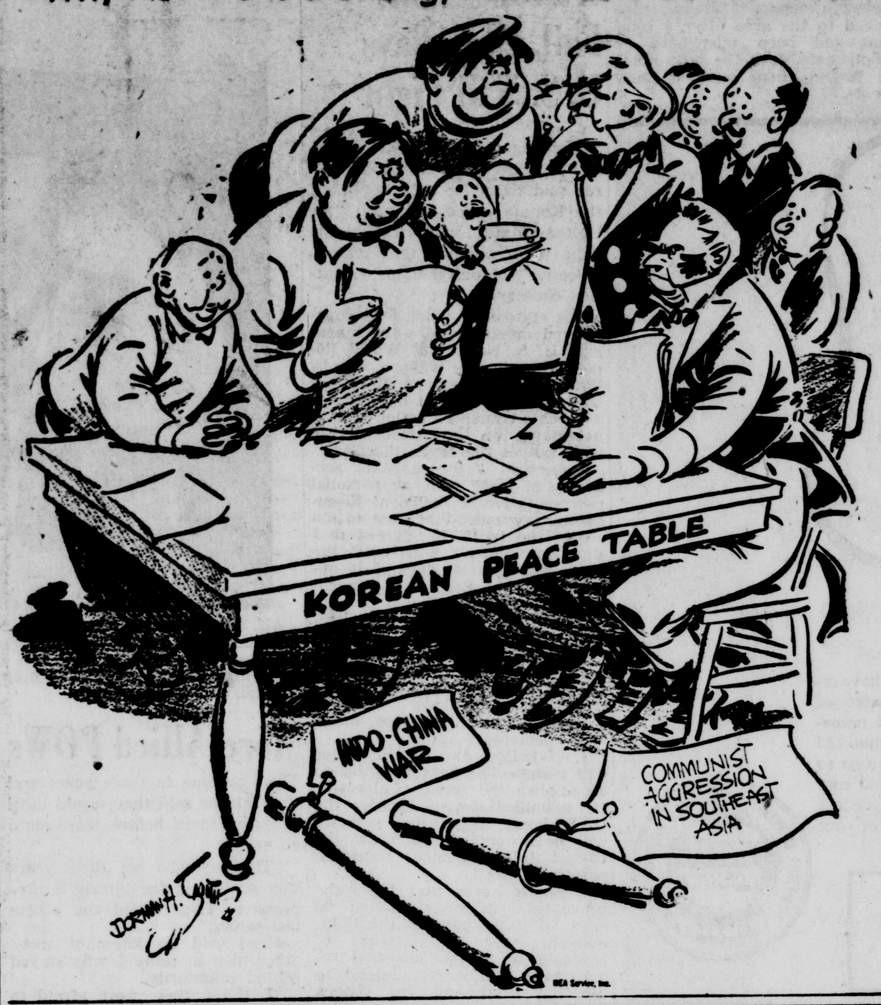

In the usual cases, the patient is able to control his feelings during the day but symptoms grow worse with weariness at night, especially if bedclothing stimulates the skin. Together with the itching, there is usually fatigue, depression, poor sleep, irritability, bodily pains and indigestion. While soothing lotions and salves may help, the best treatment is one or two consultations with a psychiatrist who can explain how itching is caused and help the patient to adjust himself to his life problems.

Why Not Make a Strong, Solid Table Out of This?

Edson's Washington News Notebook

Washington—(NEA)—Probably the most placid man in the United States Senate during the mad, midnight windup session was Vice President Richard M. Nixon. While Sen. Wayne Morse—who is being called, "The Oregon Trailer"—held up adjournment by delivering his final hour-and-fifteen-minute speech against the Eisenhower administration's "give-away" policies, a reporter who peeked over the press gallery rail saw the vice president was paying no attention to Morse. He was intently reading a little book, later identified as Edwin Markham's "Lincoln and Other Poems."

Drum Major Kefauver

At least one other senator was able to reveal a spark of life on the last day of the session. It was Sen. Estes Kefauver (D., Tenn.)

Three little girls, obviously tourists, were waiting for the Senate subway train in the Capitol basement. Each of the girls carried a wooden baton. When the tall Tennessean came along and saw them, he borrowed one of the batons and put on an impromptu demonstration of drum-major-type twirling that astonished everyone on the platform. He did it with his left hand, too.

Shaggy Chicken Story

In final House debate on President Eisenhower's famine relief bill, Rep. Jamie L. Whitten (D., Miss.) raised objections to the Republican proposal for giving away American surpluses, freight prepaid. He illustrated his point with this shaggy chicken story:

"A young lady called on a doctor and said, 'Doctor, you are a pcychiatrist, and I want to talk to you about my brother. He thinks he's a hen. He goes around picking up things with his teeth. He clucks and he cackles and he molts in season and he lays eggs.'

"The doctor said, 'Young lady, how long has this condition existed?'

"She said, 'Twelve years.'

"The doctor said, 'Well, why have you waited this long to call a doctor about it?'

"She said, 'Doctor, up to now we have had use for the eggs.' "

No Fun When You Pay

Rep. James E. Van Zandt (R., Pa.) tried to organize a congressional recess tourist trip abroad for members of Congress and their wives.

His proposal was that the congressmen should pay all their own expenses for a change, instead of trying to cook up some excuse for an investigation trip that would saddle the taxpayers with the cost. But no congressman showed any interest in this kind of an arrangement, so the idea was dropped.

Self-Sponsored Jaunt

Freshman Republican Congressman Stuyvesant Wainright, II, from New York's first district, has been trying to wangle a trip to Korea during the congressional adjournment, but will probably end up paying his own way.

Representative Wainright's committee assignments are Education and Labor, Merchant Marine and Fisheries. There didn't seem to be anything in those fields that needed investigating in Korea.

During World War II this now 32-year-old congressman commanded First Army OSS troops in France, and won five battle stars.

Double-Check Junket

One junket at public expense will be the South American trip to be made by a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee under Rep. Donald L. Jackson (R., Calif.).

The President's brother, Dr. Milton Eisenhower, and Assistant Secretary of State John M. Cabot have just returned from getting everything straightened out in South America, but the congressmen will now see for themselves, and take six weeks to do it.

'Competitors,' He Says

Deputy Secretary of Defense Roger M. Kyes has rapidly learned all the Pentagon gobbledygook used in government administration, but he still sticks to one expression from his automobile-building days. He calls the Russians, "our competitors," and he wants to know what they've got that we haven't?

You'd Get Lost, Too

There's one other postscript story to come out of Defense Secretary C. E. Wilson's recent picnic for the military top brass, held at Quantico, Va.

It's about the two generals—classmates at West Point—who got together for a private reunion, after having been separated over five years. All this time they had both been assigned to the Pentagon.

Antitrust Troubles

Judge Stanley N. Barnes, assistant attorney general in charge of the antitrust division, has just returned from an inspection trip of the eight antitrust field offices in various parts of the country.

Since taking office in mid-April, Judge Barnes has had to familiarize himself with the 130-odd pending antitrust suits and other cases under investigation. He has not yet named his top staff, and his visit to the field offices was to see whether they should be reorganized.

Much of the time in recent weeks has also been spent on setting up Attorney General Herbert Brownell's new national committee to study the antitrust laws, looking toward their possible revision. Membership of this committee will be announced at the American Bar Association meeting in Boston, at the end of August.

Selection of this committee has already stirred up one row in the announcement by Col. Harry A. Toulmin of Dayton, Ohio, author of a six-volume treatise on "The Antitrust Laws." He would not serve on the committee. His reason: Unnamed interests were trying to pack the committee with lawyers representing big business, and small business would be neglected.

Department of Justice replied that when Colonel Toulmin was in Washington, seeking appointment to the committee, he was assured that the interests of all sections of the economy would be surveyed.

Costly Draft

Dr. John A. Hannah, assistant secretary of defense for manpower, admits that while present draft policies will permit a saving of money this year, they will end up by costing the taxpayers much more in the long run.

About 560,000 men will have to be drafted next year, if the U. S. armed forces are to be maintained at 3,400,000 strength. This draft will replace the second big batch of Korean war draftees to be discharged.

It will mean boosting draft quotas from the present 19,000 to 23,000 men a month to something like 45,000 or 46,000 men a month next year.

It would have been more efficient and more economical, says Dr. Hannah, to average out the draft quota at between 30,000 to 35,000 a month over the whole two-year period. The ups and downs of the draft calls cost the taxpayers because they necessitate idle facilities during the down periods and extra equipment for the up periods.

The whole military situation looked so good right now, however, that it was decided to handle it the expensive way.

Ripley's—Believe It or Not!

The king is believed to think with the actual brain of his deceased predecessor, and derives his absolute power from it.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Aug. 17 — Something more than a mere change in personnel is dramatized as Admiral Radford, chairman, and an entirely new joint chiefs of staff take over from General Bradley, chairman, and the three service chiefs who held their posts under the Truman Administration. For the change is one of military philosophy toward civilian control. It can be of profound importance to the security of the United States.

Under the Truman Administration the military chiefs were tools of politics. They couldn't say publicly what they thought without fear of reprisal—as happened to Admiral Denfeld, chief of naval operations. What they said in the open was usually dictated, therefore, by political considerations. Speeches delivered by some of them were often made to fit in as replies to political attacks on the administration. Though such motivation was always officially denied, the record shows an oft-repeated coincidence of military pronouncements that suited the political whims of President Truman or the pro-British point of view of Secretary of State Acheson.

When General Bradley, just a few weeks after the dismissal of General MacArthur, couldn't remember who in the White House telephoned him to summon the joint chiefs to consider the future status of MacArthur, almost everyone was surprised at his poor memory. But when it was discovered later that the joint chiefs—our supreme military authority—had not initiated or recommended the MacArthur ouster to the President and only had concurred when the word was relayed to them by General Bradley as to what the President wanted, people on Capitol Hill, including the late Senator Taft, were chagrined. From that time on—as the speeches by General Bradley seemed to be political expressions ordered by the administration—the late Republican leader declared publicly he had no confidence in the then-existing joint chiefs of staff.

General Bradley was an excellent soldier in the last war in Europe. He has a likable personality and has many admirers as a military man. But his judgment on global strategy has been subject to public criticism by many other prominent military men. Thus, when he told a House committee in the autumn of 1949 that America could dispense with large aircraft carriers and he openly disparaged the concept of amphibious warfare on a large scale, he didn't realize that within eight months one of the largest amphibious operations in American history would be carried out on the peninsula of Korea or that, without aircraft carriers, the fighter planes of the U. S. Air Force could never have been transported to Korea in time to meet the crisis of the early days of the way.

Every military commander knows that the kind of war waged in Korea under the joint chiefs of staff of the Truman-Acheson administration was not the kind of war that should have been fought. But the military chiefs never said so for fear of being summarily dismissed, as was General MacArthur.

The basic principle involved here is the forthrightness and independence of the military. It must always be obedient to a civilian decision, but in furnishing military advice it must not adulterate its thinking on military questions to suit the political purposes of the administration or to appease allies who transmit their views to our State Department.

Refusal of the joint chiefs, for example, to support on paper confidentially or before Congress subsequently their December 1951 view that bases in Manchuria should be bombarded and a naval embargo placed on strategic materials destined directly or indirectly for Red China is a sad example of how the military forfeited its independence of judgment under the last administration.

The philosophy of the new personnel on the joint chiefs of staff is different. It was expressed by General Ridgway, chief of staff of the army, when he took his oath of office last week. He pledged himself to preserve the Democratic institutions of America and to "maintain the integrity of the military profession."

General Ridgway said this means presenting "honest, objective, professional views up to the point of decision by civilian authority, and then completely loyal execution of that decision."

No better creed could be proclaimed for the entire group of new service chiefs. The function of Admiral Radford, as chairman of the joint chiefs, should not be to make public speeches, however great the temptation to uphold his boss in the political arena. It should be to furnish the best military advice possible and—when called upon — to tell Congress frankly what that advice was so that the legislative branch of the government may in due time pass judgment on the efficiency and effectiveness of the military service rendered by the joint chiefs of staff.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Martin Durkin, President Eisenhower's Democratic secretary of labor, has come out for freedom of speech and fair play as noble American traditions. This declaration by the former president of the plumbers' union, is inconsistent with his conduct in the case of Ralph Howard Alsup, business agent of the great plumbers' local which covers Clark county, Nev., including Las Vegas. Alsup wantonly shot a brother in the bond of unionism for making a mild remonstrance on behalf of a fellow member of the painters' union, who had been run off his job in favor of a newcomer who had paid a fresh initiation fee. The dispute was none of Alsup's business, for the painters' union had a qualified local exercising jurisdiction.

The evidence showed that Alsup was drunk, as usual, and, being a notorious criminal with a multiple record of convictions for gunplay and a jail delivery in Texas, was looking for trouble, as usual. He was president of the Clark County Federation of Labor, vice president of the State Federation and business agent of the Clark county plumbers' union by Durkin's tolerance and with Durkin's knowledge of his criminal character and record. Durkin never took any step to remove Alsup from any of his offices, although his own personal representative had ventured into Nevada and confirmed the facts in a report to Durkin.

The wounded man was an inoffensive, wandering craftsman of a type now familiar all over the country as workers follow the construction program of the government departments. After he recovered, the Clark county AF of L racketeers, including Durkin's local subordinates, ran the poor fellow out of Nevada and even pursued him to Alaska, where he tried to hide from their persecution. Driven from Alaska, by other AF of L unions, he found his way back to his home in Oklahoma. He wanted nothing from the unions but peace and freedom to work for an honest living.

It was hard to persuade him to go back to Las Vegas to testify against Alsup because Alsup had continued his vicious career, adding two more gun charges and a charge of wife-beating to his police record. The wives of some of the working pumbers in Las Vegas helped Mrs. Alsup and her children and the plumbers were compelled to pay for his court defense, well understanding that if they refused, Alsup would pass the word to the contractors to lay them off.

Durkin knew all about Alsup's criminal career and knew also that he was a racketeer, conniving with the leading contractors to grant them a monopoly on construction jobs by denying other contractors the services of workmen under his control. For this Alsup and a group of contractors and suppliers of material were indicted under the Anti-Trust Law and convicted. At last, Alsup went to the state prison at Carson to serve about one year for shooting the painter. But when I encountered Governor Charles H. Russell, of Nevada, at a conference of governors in New Orleans last June, Mr. Russell said Alsup was getting out of Carson that very day and never would have to serve a sentence of six months, federal, for the anti-trust job. By this time his boss, Durkin, was a power in the new Eisenhower administration.

The governor said Alsup was a confirmed criminal with a brutal disposition who would shoot anyone when his temper was aroused. He did not know why the De-

STOPPING WETBACKS

Attorney General Herbert Brownell will visit California soon to study at first hand the problem of "wetbacks." Mexicans who make their way into the United States illegally, some of them by swimming across the Rio Grande, are referred to as wetbacks. They are usually poor, ill-educated people who hope to make a better life for themselves in this country. Frequently they are disappointed or exploited by employers who hire them at rates much lower than other workers will accept.

The wetback problem is a serious one for many reasons. Such entry into the United States is a violation of our immigration laws and when violations succeed a weakness in the system is indicated. The low rate of pay which such workers will accept makes things difficult for Americans who do similar work but who must have higher pay because of their accustomed higher standard of living.

If Mexican farm workers can make their way into the country illegally in such a manner it is possible for criminals and even enemy agents to do so. It may he hoped that Attorney General Brownell will return from his California visit with a new insight into the problem and with some ideas for meeting it.

Hot weather tips for women are fine but most men would be in bad shape if the women took that one about staying out of the kitchen too literally.

ALASKA'S FUTURE

There seems to be some concern among Alaskans as to the effect a decline in the defense program might have on the future of Alaska. A great part of the sudden growth of Alaska in recent years may be credited to the building of military installations there. If this building program is cut off Alaska may have to depend on its two largest industries, tourists and fishing. Both are seasonal.

Perhaps one answer to the problem lies in encouragement of private industrial investment in the territory. The $46,000,000 pulp mill being built near Ketchikan is an example of the sort of capital investment Alaska needs.

Steps must be taken to see that the gains made in Alaska under the impetus of the defense program are not dissipated when that program slackens. Alaska is vital to the economy and security of the United States and we will have to solve the problem of how to strengthen the economy of that territory. It is one of the problems which will require speedy attention and action on the part of the administration.

After reading some of those long repetitious speeches by Congressmen we get the impression that frequently the needle must get stuck in that Congressional record.

Gardening is just one back-breaking chore after another. From spring until fall it is nothing but seeds and weeds and planting and panting.

PURGE CONTINUES

The purge in various parts of the world behind the Iron Curtain continues. In North Korea a number of prominent party leaders and government officials have been disposed of in typical Communist fashion. In East Germany the purge has cut down some of the men who were formerly hailed as heroes. The worst crime under the Communist system is to fail and the purges are convincing evidence that these people are considered failures.

If rioting and unrest in East Germany continues Russia may be faced with a perplexing problem. If they remove the government it will appear that they are yielding to pressure. If they do not they will be tolerating failure and police state inefficiency, something they have never tolerated before.

It is impossible to feel any sympathy for those who are purged whatever fate befalls them. They decided to live by a code that called for betrayal of their countries, for suppression of the freedom of their countrymen. Now that the violence they lived by has been turned upon them the world can do more than think it just.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

TOO MANY PROMISES

As one goes over the material on Korea, it is shocking to read all the promises that have been made, particularly about unification! As early as December 1948, the United Nations promised "complete independence and unity of Korea." The United States assented to this promise. Yet, the truce separates Korea, between North and South, and if not precisely on the 38th parallel, close enough to arouse suspicion that the war actually served no purpose.

In June 1950, when the North Koreans attacked the South Koreans, the United Nations Security Council pledged "complete independence and unity" for Korea. Warren Austin, our representative in the United Nations, waxed eloquent that Korea should not be permitted to remain "half slave, half free." The General Assembly of the United Nations had voted that Korea be unified under a freely elected government. Trygve Lie, then Secretary General of the United Nations, said in a speech that it would not be enough to drive the Korean Communists beyond the 38th parallel; the country must be "unified and independent" and that the Koreans must be "able freely to select a government of their own choosing."

This general type of promise continued throughout the war in Korea—except for Harry Truman who from the beginning set the 38th parallel as the limit of intervention. In many respects, Truman's public statements were more honest than most because he did not take a position that unification would be achieved by force.

Despite the various statements about unification, as early as October 12, 1950, Syngman Rhee was precluded from governing North Korea, even the conquered territory. A resolution to that effect was introduced by Australia and was approved. After the Wake Island conference between President Truman and General MacArthur, Rhee's position was considrebaly weakened. Yet a United Nations Commission on Unification and Rehabilitation had been appointed. What kind of unification was not made clear.

One of the most amazing documents in this series is a joint statement issued by President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee in which it is said:

"There can be no thought of appeasement or of rewarding aggression, whether in the Far East or elsewhere" but "we are ready (to) seek an end to hostilities by means of negotiation . . . on the basis of a free and independent Korea."

Yet, aggression is rewarded in the sense that the Chinese Communists, who are the effective aggressors in this war, are actually being supported by Great Britain, France, Canada and other countries in their demand for a seat in the United Nations. Should they get their seat, would it not be evidence that crime does pay?

President Truman, in his reply to the Russian peace proposal (June 1951), said:

"We are ready to join in a peaceful settlement in Korea now just as we have always been. But it must be a real settlement which fully ends the aggression and restores peace and security" to Korea.

It will here be noted that nothing is said in this statement about unification. The Russian peace proposal was made after 1950, when the United States troops were at the Yalu River with all of Korea under their control. The victory had been won by General MacArthur against the North Koreans, but on November 6, 1950, the Chinese Communists intervened and started a new war.

After the Chinese intervention, talk about unification was not so general. For instance, in June 1951, Dean Acheson said that the war was being fought to end aggression and to restore peace. Acheson's attitude, like Trumans, was that if the status quo ante bellum could be restored, it would be enough.

However, President Eisenhower did not take that position. He said in June 1953, that the United States was committed to the principle of the unification of Korea.

Actually, it would seem that too many promises have been made, most of which are not yet known to the American people. What are our commitments to Great Britain or to India? How far have we gone in our negotiations with the North Koreans who represented the Chinese Communists? What have we promised Syngman Rhee in return for his consent to be a good boy for 90 days?

These questions have not been answered. The Far Eastern sub-committee of the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate may know the answers, but they regard them as confidential. Yet, the people do not know and it is their business.

That Body of Yours

ITCHING AND NERVOUS TENSION

Most of us, when upset or undergoing an emotional disturbance are not inclined to eat much and may sleep less than usual. There are, on the other hand, individuals who, instead of eating less when emotionally disturbed, actually eat more food, not only at mealtime but eat more and oftener between meals. The eating of food is their particular way of meeting their life problems.

In "Modern Medicine of Canada," Drs. C. D. Calnan and Desmond O'Neill, St. John's Hospital, London, England, state that in some people emotional distress arouses itching. The patient's symptom tends to appear at times of unusual worry or annoyance, particularly if feelings are repressed. The intensity varies with the degree of strain; on release of tension, itching (pruritis) generally subsides.

Emotional disturbances are usually treated by psychiatrists who first point out that the itching is one of the ways nature uses to give relief. By close, patient, sympathetic questioning, the patient usually cooperates by telling his life story and the physician then shows the relation between the life story and the desire to scratch the skin.

In the treatment of 30 cases of itching referred to Drs. Calnan and O'Neill, they found three types of involvement of the skin; an injury to the skin in 10 cases, with excoriations (scratches) in 6 and patches of small pimples in 14. All of the 30 patients had relapses and increase in symptoms during periods of prolonged emotional stress.

While there are various foods and substances floating in the air that can cause itching of the skin, itching caused by the emotions may be diagnosed or recognized by the following:

1.—Onset and course of the itching are related to events calling forth emotions too strong for the patient to handle.

2.—Tension shown in ways other than the itching—diarrhoea or constipation, frequent urination.

3.—Decrease in the itching symptoms or disappearance of skin irritation when the unpleasant situation is mastered or the problem solved.

In the usual cases, the patient is able to control his feelings during the day but symptoms grow worse with weariness at night, especially if bedclothing stimulates the skin. Together with the itching, there is usually fatigue, depression, poor sleep, irritability, bodily pains and indigestion. While soothing lotions and salves may help, the best treatment is one or two consultations with a psychiatrist who can explain how itching is caused and help the patient to adjust himself to his life problems.

Why Not Make a Strong, Solid Table Out of This?

Edson's Washington News Notebook

Washington—(NEA)—Probably the most placid man in the United States Senate during the mad, midnight windup session was Vice President Richard M. Nixon. While Sen. Wayne Morse—who is being called, "The Oregon Trailer"—held up adjournment by delivering his final hour-and-fifteen-minute speech against the Eisenhower administration's "give-away" policies, a reporter who peeked over the press gallery rail saw the vice president was paying no attention to Morse. He was intently reading a little book, later identified as Edwin Markham's "Lincoln and Other Poems."

Drum Major Kefauver

At least one other senator was able to reveal a spark of life on the last day of the session. It was Sen. Estes Kefauver (D., Tenn.)

Three little girls, obviously tourists, were waiting for the Senate subway train in the Capitol basement. Each of the girls carried a wooden baton. When the tall Tennessean came along and saw them, he borrowed one of the batons and put on an impromptu demonstration of drum-major-type twirling that astonished everyone on the platform. He did it with his left hand, too.

Shaggy Chicken Story

In final House debate on President Eisenhower's famine relief bill, Rep. Jamie L. Whitten (D., Miss.) raised objections to the Republican proposal for giving away American surpluses, freight prepaid. He illustrated his point with this shaggy chicken story:

"A young lady called on a doctor and said, 'Doctor, you are a psychiatrist, and I want to talk to you about my brother. He thinks he's a hen. He goes around picking up things with his teeth. He clucks and he cackles and he molts in season and he lays eggs.'

"The doctor said, 'Young lady, how long has this condition existed?'

"She said, 'Twelve years.'

"The doctor said, 'Well, why have you waited this long to call a doctor about it?'

"She said, 'Doctor, up to now we have had use for the eggs.' "

No Fun When You Pay

Rep. James E. Van Zandt (R., Pa.) tried to organize a congressional recess tourist trip abroad for members of Congress and their wives.

His proposal was that the congressmen should pay all their own expenses for a change, instead of trying to cook up some excuse for an investigation trip that would saddle the taxpayers with the cost. But no congressman showed any interest in this kind of an arrangement, so the idea was dropped.

Self-Sponsored Jaunt

Freshman Republican Congressman Stuyvesant Wainright, II, from New York's first district, has been trying to wangle a trip to Korea during the congressional adjournment, but will probably end up paying his own way.

Representative Wainright's committee assignments are Education and Labor, Merchant Marine and Fisheries. There didn't seem to be anything in those fields that needed investigating in Korea.

During World War II this now 32-year-old congressman commanded First Army OSS troops in France, and won five battle stars.

Double-Check Junket

One junket at public expense will be the South American trip to be made by a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee under Rep. Donald L. Jackson (R., Calif.).

The President's brother, Dr. Milton Eisenhower, and Assistant Secretary of State John M. Cabot have just returned from getting everything straightened out in South America, but the congressmen will now see for themselves, and take six weeks to do it.

'Competitors,' He Says

Deputy Secretary of Defense Roger M. Kyes has rapidly learned all the Pentagon gobbledygook used in government administration, but he still sticks to one expression from his automobile-building days. He calls the Russians, "our competitors," and he wants to know what they've got that we haven't?

You'd Get Lost, Too

There's one other postscript story to come out of Defense Secretary C. E. Wilson's recent picnic for the military top brass, held at Quantico, Va.

It's about the two generals—classmates at West Point—who got together for a private reunion, after having been separated over five years. All this time they had both been assigned to the Pentagon.

Antitrust Troubles

Judge Stanley N. Barnes, assistant attorney general in charge of the antitrust division, has just returned from an inspection trip of the eight antitrust field offices in various parts of the country.

Since taking office in mid-April, Judge Barnes has had to familiarize himself with the 130-odd pending antitrust suits and other cases under investigation. He has not yet named his top staff, and his visit to the field offices was to see whether they should be reorganized.

Much of the time in recent weeks has also been spent on setting up Attorney General Herbert Brownell's new national committee to study the antitrust laws, looking toward their possible revision. Membership of this committee will be announced at the American Bar Association meeting in Boston, at the end of August.

Selection of this committee has already stirred up one row in the announcement by Col. Harry A. Toulmin of Dayton, Ohio, author of a six-volume treatise on "The Antitrust Laws." He would not serve on the committee. His reason: Unnamed interests were trying to pack the committee with lawyers representing big business, and small business would be neglected.

Department of Justice replied that when Colonel Toulmin was in Washington, seeking appointment to the committee, he was assured that the interests of all sections of the economy would be surveyed.

Costly Draft

Dr. John A. Hannah, assistant secretary of defense for manpower, admits that while present draft policies will permit a saving of money this year, they will end up by costing the taxpayers much more in the long run.

About 560,000 men will have to be drafted next year, if the U. S. armed forces are to be maintained at 3,400,000 strength. This draft will replace the second big batch of Korean war draftees to be discharged.

It will mean boosting draft quotas from the present 19,000 to 23,000 men a month to something like 45,000 or 46,000 men a month next year.

It would have been more efficient and more economical, says Dr. Hannah, to average out the draft quota at between 30,000 to 35,000 a month over the whole two-year period. The ups and downs of the draft calls cost the taxpayers because they necessitate idle facilities during the down periods and extra equipment for the up periods.

The whole military situation looked so good right now, however, that it was decided to handle it the expensive way.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Aug. 17 — Something more than a mere change in personnel is dramatized as Admiral Radford, chairman, and an entirely new joint chiefs of staff take over from General Bradley, chairman, and the three service chiefs who held their posts under the Truman Administration. For the change is one of military philosophy toward civilian control. It can be of profound importance to the security of the United States.

Under the Truman Administration the military chiefs were tools of politics. They couldn't say publicly what they thought without fear of reprisal—as happened to Admiral Denfeld, chief of naval operations. What they said in the open was usually dictated, therefore, by political considerations. Speeches delivered by some of them were often made to fit in as replies to political attacks on the administration. Though such motivation was always officially denied, the record shows an oft-repeated coincidence of military pronouncements that suited the political whims of President Truman or the pro-British point of view of Secretary of State Acheson.

When General Bradley, just a few weeks after the dismissal of General MacArthur, couldn't remember who in the White House telephoned him to summon the joint chiefs to consider the future status of MacArthur, almost everyone was surprised at his poor memory. But when it was discovered later that the joint chiefs—our supreme military authority—had not initiated or recommended the MacArthur ouster to the President and only had concurred when the word was relayed to them by General Bradley as to what the President wanted, people on Capitol Hill, including the late Senator Taft, were chagrined. From that time on—as the speeches by General Bradley seemed to be political expressions ordered by the administration—the late Republican leader declared publicly he had no confidence in the then-existing joint chiefs of staff.

General Bradley was an excellent soldier in the last war in Europe. He has a likable personality and has many admirers as a military man. But his judgment on global strategy has been subject to public criticism by many other prominent military men. Thus, when he told a House committee in the autumn of 1949 that America could dispense with large aircraft carriers and he openly disparaged the concept of amphibious warfare on a large scale, he didn't realize that within eight months one of the largest amphibious operations in American history would be carried out on the peninusula of Korea or that, without aircraft carriers, the fighter planes of the U. S. Air Force could never have been transported to Korea in time to meet the crisis of the early days of the way.

Every military commander knows that the kind of war waged in Korea under the joint chiefs of staff of the Truman-Acheson administration was not the kind of war that should have been fought. But the military chiefs never said so for fear of being summarily dismissed, as was General MacArthur.

The basic principle involved here is the forthrightness and independence of the military. It must always be obedient to a civilian decision, but in furnishing military advice it must not adulterate its thinking on military questions to suit the political purposes of the administration or to appease allies who transmit their views to our State Department.

Refusal of the joint chiefs, for example, to support on paper confidentially or before Congress subsequently their December 1951 view that bases in Manchuria should be bombarded and a naval embargo placed on strategic materials destined directly or indirectly for Red China is a sad example of how the military forfeited its independence of judgment under the last administration.

The philosophy of the new personnel on the joint chiefs of staff is different. It was expressed by General Ridgway, chief of staff of the army, when he took his oath of office last week. He pledged himself to preserve the Democratic institutions of America and to "maintain the integrity of the military profession."

General Ridgway said this means presenting "honest, objective, professional views up to the point of decision by civilian authority, and then completely loyal execution of that decision."

No better creed could be proclaimed for the entire group of new service chiefs. The function of Admiral Radford, as chairman of the joint chiefs, should not be to make public speeches, however great the temptation to uphold his boss in the political arena. It should be to furnish the best military advice possible and—when called upon — to tell Congress frankly what that advice was so that the legislative branch of the government may in due time pass judgment on the efficiency and effectiveness of the military service rendered by the joint chiefs of staff.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Martin Durkin, President Eisenhower's Democratic secretary of labor, has come out for freedom of speech and fair play as noble American traditions. This declaration by the former president of the plumbers' union, is inconsistent with his conduct in the case of Ralph Howard Alsup, business agent of the great plumbers' local which covers Clark county, Nev., including Las Vegas. Alsup wantonly shot a brother in the bond of unionism for making a mild remonstrance on behalf of a fellow member of the painters' union, who had been run off his job in favor of a newcomer who had paid a fresh initiation fee. The dispute was none of Alsup's business, for the painters' union had a qualified local exercising jurisdiction.

The evidence showed that Alsup was drunk, as usual, and, being a notorious criminal with a multiple record of convictions for gunplay and a jail delivery in Texas, was looking for trouble, as usual. Water, Ease, Paupers

By FRANK TRIPP

Urbanites turn the spigot and one of life's essentials flows to them abundantly. Not one in a thousand has given serious thought to the sweat and genius that brought this modern miracle about. Not unless he has sometime been deprived of water.

Billions of barrels of clear, cool Seneca Lake water are within a few rods of our house. It filters through purifying sand, gravel and clay under the surface of the whole Point. No community on earth is more blessed with unlimited pure water. All we need do is go and get it.

The Indians scooped it in pitcher pump, gourds; the pioneers lugged it in buckets; later the common still the one surfire gadget; finally the windmill. Electricity spread across the hills and now almost everybody gets water for house and cattle by opening a faucet, just like their city cousins.

All very lovely, until comes the inevitable mechanical let-down. Then you'd better know how to dig out, for you're on your own.

WE LATELY went through what we came to call "pump week." Though extravagantly equipped with two wells, Seneca Lake and three electric pumps, all three went on sit-down strike during a single week. It looked like a frame-up.

Water really hasn't much to do with this epistle, except to edge up to other topics, and call a few things by their right names.

When we got water-stuck for just a few hours, great cries of deprivation went up, and set me to thinking, "Look what's happened to a rugged people who opened this country with an axe, a harrow, a musket, and sublime faith in God—and themselves."

IT'S TOO BAD that more folks can't have a fling at rural living, where dwellers are frequently reminded that "God helps those who help themselves." And too bad that adage isn't our national motto, the way things have turned out.

Every day more and more willing victims of easy living are becoming less self-reliant and more dependent upon others; more helpless, less proud. It is a product of ease, coddling government and ism agencies which rarely think of welfare in terms of self-help and individual independence; the only genuine welfare.

It is the "gimme era," successor to the good old "help me" age. The responsible and thrifty dig themselves out, and have to dig out and bail out millions of shiftless, who once were known by another name, backcountry.

PAUPERS they were, and paupers they still are, ugly as the word may be. One may somehow leech enough to live on and still be a pauper. For a pauper is a dependent upon those not morally obligated to support him.

That others are forced by tax legislation to support him, doesn't change the basic status of the shameless and habitual able-bodied work dodger. He's as much a pauper today as he was publicly proclaimed to be 50 years ago.

IN MY BOOK, there's a distinct connection between the ease in which we live and the mounting dependence of people on the public funds. The healthy aborigine who was too lazy to walk to the water to drink was left to choke to death.

Cruel maybe, yet it was the formula which grew sturdy, self-reliant peoples, even our own race. One needn't bore into the forest with bow and arrow to retreat to the stage of civilization when proud men lived by their wits, ambition and ingenuity.

He need only set himself up on the outskirts of his lazy luxury, without know-how, tools, accommodating neighbors or a handyman within sudden reach, to realize that somebody sacrifices, invests and toils to bring him his accustomed ease on a silver platter.

It does more than that for him. Whether it is water, food, medicine or protection that he must figure out for himself, he emerges a more self-reliant, independent individual; more sure of himself—and more conscious of the nation's growing pauperism:

Under a more polite name.

Straighten Out Meld Problems

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"Please settle a question on the concealed hand," requests a San Francisco correspondent. "Both sides needed 120 points for the initial meld. My partner melded some aces and kings with a joker, to start the ball rolling. The player at my right then took the pile and melded some queens, tens and wild cards, discarding a seven from his hand.

"My hand consisted of five sevens, five fours and a deuce. I pounced on that discard pile (which consisted of just one seven), melded the six sevens with a deuce to form a canasta, and also melded my five fours. In short, I melded out, with my own private canasta.

"I claimed that I was entitled to a bonus of 200 points for melding out concealed. My opponents claimed that I was entitled only to 100 points for melding out. (The extra 100 points would have put us over 5000 points, thus giving us the game.)

"The opponents contended that I would not have been able to take the discard pile except for the fact that my partner had already melded. His meld relieved me of the duty of showing a count of 1200 points. Hence, I was using his meld and could not get the bonus for melding out concealed.

"Were they right?"

No. Their argument was ingenious, but not valid. The rule says that you are not allowed to use your partner's previous melds (if any) in order to meld out concealed. This means only that you are not allowed to add any cards to your partner's previous melds.

For example, after he had melded aces and kings, you could not put down additional aces or kings and still try to meld out concealed. (You meld out, of course, but you would get only the normal bonus of 100 points for doing so.)

This is the only restriction. Your partner's previous meld relieves you of the duty of showing the count, but that doesn't prevent you from melding out concealed. In this game my San Francisco correspondent was entitled to the full bonus of 200 points for melding out.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

Water, Ease, Paupers

By FRANK TRIPP

Urbanites turn the spigot and one of life's essentials flows to them abundantly. Not one in a thousand has given serious thought to the sweat and genius that brought this modern miracle about. Not unless he has sometime been deprived of water.

Billions of barrels of clear, cool Seneca Lake water are within a few rods of our house. It filters through purifying sand, gravel and clay under the surface of the whole Point. No community on earth is more blessed with unlimited pure water. All we need do is go and get it.

The Indians scooped it in pitcher pump, gourds; the pioneers lugged it in buckets; later the common still the one surfire gadget; finally the windmill. Electricity spread across the hills and now almost everybody gets water for house and cattle by opening a faucet, just like their city cousins.

All very lovely, until comes the inevitable mechanical let-down. Then you'd better know how to dig out, for you're on your own.

WE LATELY went through what we came to call "pump week." Though extravagantly equipped with two wells, Seneca Lake and three electric pumps, all three went on sit-down strike during a single week. It looked like a frame-up.

Water really hasn't much to do with this epistle, except to edge up to other topics, and call a few things by their right names.

When we got water-stuck for just a few hours, great cries of deprivation went up, and set me to thinking, "Look what's happened to a rugged people who opened this country with an axe, a harrow, a musket, and sublime faith in God—and themselves."

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Received a very nice note and items from a lady Emma T. of Mount Marion. She writes, "We enjoy your 'Do You Remember' column and thought these magazine pages from 1898 might interest you. I love the life and spirit you put into the days of the past . . . and when I stroll through the old streets downtown. . . . I enjoy it and with lots of imagination. . . . I see the folks outside the stores in their old-fashioned high silk hats, etc." According to her letter, this lady is not a native born but originally came from Brooklyn, but just likes to read about goings on in this section of long ago.

I do not know what books these interesting illustrated pictures come from, but they are all about Kingston during Mayor William D. Brinnier's time, from 1898 to 1899. Mayor Brinnier was born in Kingston in 1859, attended common schools and later entered Kingston Academy. When he finished his academic studies in 1877, he commenced the study of law in D. W. Sparling's office. When he was 21, he was admitted to the bar and at once started to practice law. He became one of the most prominent lawyers of his day. Mr. Brinnier was a Democrat and in 1884 was elected as member of the Common Council of Kingston, and was re-elected five times in succession, retiring in 1895. He served 11 years as member of the board of education. In 1891 he ran for mayor but did not make it. He tried in 1897 and was elected. He was a member of various important social clubs of Kingston including the Kingston Club.

Not only was he a member of the State Bar Association, but while on a visit to Colorado in 1892, he was admitted to the bar of that state. In 1889, Mr. Brinnier formed a partnership with Alvah S. Newcomb, and the law firm of Brinnier and Newcomb commanded a large and successful practice.

This page has pictures and write-up on not only Mayor Brinnier but also, "his cabinet." There is John W. Searing, coporation counsel, a native of Ulster county and a lawyer, and partner of John E. Kraft, and co-publisher of the Kingston Leader. When he became corporation counsel he sold his interest in the Leader. Willgott Klingberg, was city engineer, who studied engineering at a naval academy in his native Sweden. "When he became of age he preferred engineering to the navy, and came to America. He spent several years in the western states before coming to Kingston to engineer the Colonial street cars." Most of the tenants of the Elizabeth Hutton properties of the 1920's no doubt remember him, as he was our landlord. I always had an idea he came from Scotland, as he often wore a plaid cap, of the sporty type. I think he moved to Long Island as we used to send rent down there.

On Mayor Brinnier's staff, also was Christopher A. Murray, recorder, or city judge, as I think their title was changed to in later years. Mr. Murray was born in Kingston, and had his office in Rondout at 46 East Strand. I remember when he and his brother, John lived at 147 Abeel street and on their way home used to stop and talk to my father. Two charming gentlemen of the old school.

Never Be Misled By Simple Hands

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Probably every reader of this column will see the right way to make three no-trump in today's hand. Nevertheless, when the hand was played in a recent tournament two very experienced players went astray.

That's why I decided that the hand must be more difficult than it seems to be. The right play; which seems so obvious, may stump some of my readers.

West opened the deuce of hearts, dummy played low, and East won with the king. East looked nervously at the dummy's long diamonds and wondered whether he ought to shift desperately to spades or clubs in the hope of producing the setting tricks before his king of diamonds was knocked out.

He correctly decided that either shift was unlikely to succeed, and therefore returned the eight of hearts.

South won the second trick with the queen of hearts in order to keep dummy's ace as an entry to the long diamonds. He then led the queen of diamonds and let it ride for a finesse.

At some tables East took the first diamond with the king—and the rest was easy for declarer. It was a cinch to run the diamonds, making five diamond tricks, two clubs, two hearts, and a spade.

At a few tables, East made the correct play of refusing the first diamond trick. South then continued with the jack of diamonds, and West had to discard. This naturally made it clear that East had all of the missing diamonds.

Incredible as it may seem, two declarers allowed the jack of diamonds to ride for a second finesse. They were punished for their carelessness when East refused that trick likewise. Now these declarers were limited to three diamond tricks—which was not enough to bring in the game. Both declarers floundered around through the rest of the hand, finally winding up with only eight tricks.

The correct play, of course, is to overtake the jack of diamonds with dummy's ace. The ten of diamonds is then led, and East has to take his king then or at the next trick. Declarer can get back to dummy with the ace of hearts to cash the rest of the diamonds for a total of five diamond tricks and five tricks in the remaning suits.

Biggest Guard

Beverly, Ohio (AP)—The biggest guard in the electrical business is getting ready to go to work for the Ohio Power Co. at its Muskingum river plant. The guard is a giant circuit breaker that is capable of shutting off in one-twentieth of a second more electrical energy than any other break in use at present in the world. The 80-ton guard will begin this fall to protect the plant's 330,000-volt power transmission system whenever short circuits occur. It will act as a giant fuse, like the ones in your home electrical system.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Received a very nice note and items from a lady Emma T. of Mount Marion. She writes, "We enjoy your 'Do You Remember' column and thought these magazine pages from 1898 might interest you. I love the life and spirit you put into the days of the past . . . and when I stroll through the old streets downtown. . . . I enjoy it and with lots of imagination. . . . I see the folks outside the stores in their old-fashioned high silk hats, etc." According to her letter, this lady is not a native born but originally came from Brooklyn, but just likes to read about goings on in this section of long ago.

I do not know what books these interesting illustrated pictures come from, but they are all about Kingston during Mayor William D. Brinnier's time, from 1898 to 1899. Mayor Brinnier was born in Kingston in 1859, attended common schools and later entered Kingston Academy. When he finished his academic studies in 1877, he commenced the study of law in D. W. Sparling's office. When he was 21, he was admitted to the bar and at once started to practice law. He became one of the most prominent lawyers of his day. Mr. Brinnier was a Democrat and in 1884 was elected as member of the Common Council of Kingston, and was re-elected five times in succession, retiring in 1895. He served 11 years as member of the board of education. In 1891 he ran for mayor but did not make it. He tried in 1897 and was elected. He was a member of various important social clubs of Kingston including the Kingston Club.

Not only was he a member of the State Bar Association, but while on a visit to Colorado in 1892, he was admitted to the bar of that state. In 1889, Mr. Brinnier formed a partnership with Alvah S. Newcomb, and the law firm of Brinnier and Newcomb commanded a large and successful practice.

This page has pictures and write-up on not only Mayor Brinnier but also, "his cabinet." There is John W. Searing, coporation counsel, a native of Ulster county and a lawyer, and partner of John E. Kraft, and co-publisher of the Kingston Leader. When he became corporation counsel he sold his interest in the Leader. Willgott Klingberg, was city engineer, who studied engineering at a naval academy in his native Sweden. "When he became of age he preferred engineering to the navy, and came to America. He spent several years in the western states before coming to Kingston to engineer the Colonial street cars." Most of the tenants of the Elizabeth Hutton properties of the 1920's no doubt remember him, as he was our landlord. I always had an idea he came from Scotland, as he often wore a plaid cap, of the sporty type. I think he moved to Long Island as we used to send rent down there.

On Mayor Brinnier's staff, also was Christopher A. Murray, recorder, or city judge, as I think their title was changed to in later years. Mr. Murray was born in Kingston, and had his office in Rondout at 46 East Strand. I remember when he and his brother, John lived at 147 Abeel street and on their way home used to stop and talk to my father. Two charming gentlemen of the old school.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Never Be Misled By Simple Hands

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Probably every reader of this column will see the right way to make three no-trump in today's hand. Nevertheless, when the hand was played in a recent tournament two very experienced players went astray.

That's why I decided that the hand must be more difficult than it seems to be. The right play; which seems so obvious, may stump some of my readers.

West opened the deuce of hearts, dummy played low, and East won with the king. East looked nervously at the dummy's long diamonds and wondered whether he ought to shift desperately to spades or clubs in the hope of producing the setting tricks before his king of diamonds was knocked out.

He correctly decided that either shift was unlikely to succeed, and therefore returned the eight of hearts.

South won the second trick with the queen of hearts in order to keep dummy's ace as an entry to the long diamonds. He then led the queen of diamonds and let it ride for a finesse.

At some tables East took the first diamond with the king—and the rest was easy for declarer. It was a cinch to run the diamonds, making five diamond tricks, two clubs, two hearts, and a spade.

At a few tables, East made the correct play of refusing the first diamond trick. South then continued with the jack of diamonds, and West had to discard. This naturally made it clear that East had all of the missing diamonds.

Incredible as it may seem, two declarers allowed the jack of diamonds to ride for a second finesse. They were punished for their carelessness when East refused that trick likewise. Now these declarers were limited to three diamond tricks—which was not enough to bring in the game. Both declarers floundered around through the rest of the hand, finally winding up with only eight tricks.

The correct play, of course, is to overtake the jack of diamonds with dummy's ace. The ten of diamonds is then led, and East has to take his king then or at the next trick. Declarer can get back to dummy with the ace of hearts to cash the rest of the diamonds for a total of five diamond tricks and five tricks in the remaning suits.

Biggest Guard

Beverly, Ohio (AP)—The biggest guard in the electrical business is getting ready to go to work for the Ohio Power Co. at its Muskingum river plant. The guard is a giant circuit breaker that is capable of shutting off in one-twentieth of a second more electrical energy than any other break in use at present in the world. The 80-ton guard will begin this fall to protect the plant's 330,000-volt power transmission system whenever short circuits occur. It will act as a giant fuse, like the ones in your home electrical system.

Life as Chinese Prisoner

the early days of my imprisonment, the Chinese took some American officers into Antung, Manchuria. I know of one who said the people on the streets there were very friendly.

So far as I know, all of these Americans were soon returned to North Korea, but there are other Americans today in Chinese territory. They are the ones who swallowed the Communist line and chose not to come back with the rest of us.

Not all of them, however, are there of their own volition, I am sure.

I know of one man who is among seven who left us at Prison Camp No. 5 when the armistice was signed. Just two months ago this man and I planned a new escape attempt.

I had saved and scrounged some food, about 10 pounds of hard candy, 5 fountain pens and a wrish watch. The pens and watch would have served us better than money if we had gotten out. They were given to me by some of the sick and wounded Americans who were exchanged last April.

Our escape plan did not jell because the armistice came before we were ready. Yet this man who planned it with me did not come back with the rest of us. I will never understand why. He must be under some form of pressure from the Communists or from the "progressives"—as the turncoat prisoners were called.

I personally spent many dreary months as a prisoner in Pyoktong, North Korea.

Russians Flew Planes

It was there that I saw two Russian pilots who had been shot down in fights with American jet planes.

Russians were flying MIG jets against the allies all through the Korean war.

Besides the two that I saw, I heard from reliable sources—Koreans who hate communism—of at least three other Russians who were shot down in combat early this year.

There were many other Russians engaged in the Korean war.

I saw Russian truck drivers, Russian engineers, Russian Intelligence agents, and a headquarters that the Russians maintained in Chonchong.

Teach Language in Schools

The Russian language is taught as the second language in North Korean schools.

I know seven American airmen—six officers and a sergeant—who were questioned by Russians after their capture, one of them, a captain, lost two teeth when a brutal Russian Intelligence officer knocked him down.

It was about a year ago that I first saw a Russian flier. After I was permitted to take a few pictures in prison, the Communists kept me away from the other prisoners.

On this occasion, I was sitting beside a road, enjoying the warm sun and pretending to read one of the Communist propaganda books.

A jeep came along. In it was a Russian flier in uniform. The side of his face was bleeding. He apparently had been injured when he was shot down. I was about 10 feet from him and could not have been mistaken.

The second Russian pilot that I saw was about two months later. He too had been shot down by an American Sabre.

When I was in Chongchong on a picture-making trip, I saw the Russian headquarters.

Man Can Endure Anything

One of the things I have learned at my present age, 48, is that a man can endure almost anything.

The facts of my capture are pretty well known. It was on the road between Koto and Hagaru, on the coldest night of my memory.

The Reds trapped us Nov. 29, 1950, and we were taken prisoner next day. The date is not important. It was a long time before any of us remembered it.

I was with some American Marines, British Marines, and infantry of the Marine regiment, which I had left a short time before to replenish my film.

I was riding in a jeep with Maj. John J. McLaughlin of Savannah, Ga., and Lt. Frank Cold of Tampa, Fla., when the Reds ambushed us on a narrow road.

We were pinned down all night behind a railroad embankment which offered scanty cover. Fifty or 60 men were killed and about the same number wounded. The guns froze and the ammunition ran low.

Finally Maj. McLaughlin gave the order, "fix bayonets!"

I thought to myself, "Well, this is it."

There Without Help

Three young fellows were crying, whether from fright or fatigue I do not know. I do know that when that dread order came—meaning hand-to-hand fighting—they immediately quit crying. It seemed to steel them, and they quietly fixed bayonets.

A Chinese called out in English, asking us to surrender.

Maj. McLaughlin asked the men what they wanted to do.

"I am willing to stand here and die if you want," he said. "You are not going to live forever. There is no ammunition and no help coming."

The men took about five minutes to talk it over. They voted to surrender if the Chinese would promise to leave the wounded to be picked up by Americans later. The Chinese agreed. They were combatwise veterans and so far as I could determine, they kept their promise.

We wrapped the wounded as best we could in sleeping bags and blankets and then surrendered.

Most of the next day we were kept standing on a frozen creek beneath a cliff to avoid detection by American planes. We had started on a living hell.

Hike to Torture

We hiked for months after that. Finally, after 700 miles of seemingly aimless wandering, our captors took us to prison camp No. 5, outside of Pyoktong, on the Yalu river. There began for all of us a life of starvation, torture, illness and, of course, death for many.

Now I have survived and am free again. My wife met me here in Tokyo. We have an air-conditioned room in the Imperial Hotel.

I am an out-patient of the Tokyo Army Hospital. I have just had eight teeth extracted, and am to go on until all are removed.

For lunch I had scrambled eggs, soup, two pieces of meat loaf, two glasses of milk chocolate and a piece of apple pie. If anyone had told me I could eat a meal like that two hours after having eight teeth extracted, I'd have said he was crazy. I not only did eat, I have stuffed myself every day since I got out—and I'm still hungry.

Rev. Pike Would Summon Suspected Clergymen

Washington, Aug. 17 (AP)—A New York churchman and a member of the House Un-American Activities Committee agreed yesterday there is an "infinitesimal" number of Communists in the churches. They also agreed that suspected clergymen should be summoned before congressional committees.

"The churches should show they have real intention of cleaning house," said the Rev. James A. Pike, dean of the Protestant Episcopal Cathedral of St. John the Divine of New York city.

"If a man is a Communist he should be removed. I don't believe any man who is a Communist should be teaching in church institutions."

Rep. Clardy (R.-Mich.), a member of the House Committee, said the group is not interested in any investigation of the churches.

"We are trying to discover the nature of the Communist plot and ferret it out," Clardy said. He added that it is up to the churches themselves to take action against any Communists found in church positions.

Pike, who appeared with Clardy on an NBC television program, said many clergymen have been publicly described as Communists or sympathizers when they really were not.

"We must not confuse or weaken the prophetic task of the church to work for a better social order," he said. "The desire for change does not necessarily mean Marxist thought."

There are about a million strands in a human optic nerve.

Jewish Center Plans Special Services

Herman J. Eaton, president of the Jewish Community Council of Kingston announced that special high holy day services will be held at the Jewish Community Center, 265 Wall street September 9, 10, 11 and 19. The services will be conducted under the joint auspices of Congregations Agudus Achim, Ahavath Irsael and Temple Emanuel.

Eaton explained that arrangements were made to supplement the usual synagogue services for the convenience of those who are unable to attend services downtown. He expressed his appreciation to the three congregations in Kingston for their cooperation in sponsoring the uptown services and to the Jewish Community Center for making the facilities available without charge.

In view of the limited facilities of the center, Eaton urged all those who are interested in attending services uptown to secure tickets at once. These may be purchased at the Jewish Community Center any week day from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. or through either of the three synagogues. Fees have been fixed on a non profit basis and are designed only to cover expenses.

Life as Chinese Prisoner

the early days of my imprisonment, the Chinese took some American officers into Antung, Manchuria. I know of one who said the people on the streets there were very friendly.

So far as I know, all of these Americans were soon returned to North Korea, but there are other Americans today in Chinese territory. They are the ones who swallowed the Communist line and chose not to come back with the rest of us.

Not all of them, however, are there of their own volition, I am sure.

I know of one man who is among seven who left us at Prison Camp No. 5 when the armistice was signed. Just two months ago this man and I planned a new escape attempt.

I had saved and scrounged some food, about 10 pounds of hard candy, 5 fountain pens and a wrish watch. The pens and watch would have served us better than money if we had gotten out. They were given to me by some of the sick and wounded Americans who were exchanged last April.

Our escape plan did not jell because the armistice came before we were ready. Yet this man who planned it with me did not come back with the rest of us. I will never understand why. He must be under some form of pressure from the Communists or from the "progressives"—as the turncoat prisoners were called.

I personally spent many dreary months as a prisoner in Pyoktong, North Korea.

Russians Flew Planes

It was there that I saw two Russian pilots who had been shot down in fights with American jet planes.

Russians were flying MIG jets against the allies all through the Korean war.

Besides the two that I saw, I heard from reliable sources—Koreans who hate communism—of at least three other Russians who were shot down in combat early this year.

There were many other Russians engaged in the Korean war.

I saw Russian truck drivers, Russian engineers, Russian Intelligence agents, and a headquarters that the Russians maintained in Chonchong.

Teach Language in Schools

The Russian language is taught as the second language in North Korean schools.

I know seven American airmen —six officers and a sergeant—who were questioned by Russians after their capture, one of them, a captain, lost two teeth when a brutal Russian Intelligence officer knocked him down.

It was about a year ago that I first saw a Russian flier. After I was permitted to take a few pictures in prison, the Communists kept me away from the other prisoners.

On this occasion, I was sitting beside a road, enjoying the warm sun and pretending to read one of the Communist propaganda books.

A jeep came along. In it was a Russian flier in uniform. The side of his face was bleeding. He apparently had been injured when he was shot down. I was about 10 feet from him and could not have been mistaken.

The second Russian pilot that I saw was about two months later. He too had been shot down by an American Sabre.

When I was in Chongchong on a picture-making trip, I saw the Russian headquarters.

Man Can Endure Anything

One of the things I have learned at my present age, 48, is that a man can endure almost anything.

The facts of my capture are pretty well known. It was on the road between Koto and Hagaru, on the coldest night of my memory.

The Reds trapped us Nov. 29, 1950, and we were taken prisoner next day. The date is not important. It was a long time before any of us remembered it.

I was with some American Marines, British Marines, and infantry of the Marine regiment, which I had left a short time before to replenish my film.

I was riding in a jeep with Maj. John J. McLaughlin of Savannah, Ga., and Lt. Frank Cold of Tampa, Fla., when the Reds ambushed us on a narrow road.

We were pinned down all night behind a railroad embankment which offered scanty cover. Fifty or 60 men were killed and about the same number wounded. The guns froze and the ammunition ran low.

Finally Maj. McLaughlin gave the order, "fix bayonets!"

I thought to myself, "Well, this is it."

There Without Help

Three young fellows were crying, whether from fright or fatigue I do not know. I do know that when that dread order came —meaning hand-to-hand fighting —they immediately quit crying. It seemed to steel them, and they quietly fixed bayonets.

A Chinese called out in English, asking us to surrender.

Maj. McLaughlin asked the men what they wanted to do.

"I am willing to stand here and die if you want," he said. "You are not going to live forever. There is no ammunition and no help coming."

The men took about five minutes to talk it over. They voted to surrender if the Chinese would promise to leave the wounded to be picked up by Americans later. The Chinese agreed. They were combatwise veterans and so far as I could determine, they kept their promise.

We wrapped the wounded as best we could in sleeping bags and blankets and then surrendered.

Most of the next day we were kept standing on a frozen creek beneath a cliff to avoid detection by American planes. We had started on a living hell.

Hike to Torture

We hiked for months after that. Finally, after 700 miles of seemingly aimless wandering, our captors took us to prison camp No. 5, outside of Pyoktong, on the Yalu river. There began for all of us a life of starvation, torture, illness and, of course, death for many.

Now I have survived and am free again. My wife met me here in Tokyo. We have an air-conditioned room in the Imperial Hotel.

I am an out-patient of the Tokyo Army Hospital. I have just had eight teeth extracted, and am to go on until all are removed.

For lunch I had scrambled eggs, soup, two pieces of meat loaf, two glasses of milk chocolate and a piece of apple pie. If anyone had told me I could eat a meal like that two hours after having eight teeth extracted, I'd have said he was crazy. I not only did eat, I have stuffed myself every day since I got out—and I'm still hungry.

Rev. Pike Would Summon Suspected Clergymen

Washington, Aug. 17 (AP)—A New York churchman and a member of the House Un-American Activities Committee agreed yesterday there is an "infinitesimal" number of Communists in the churches. They also agreed that suspected clergymen should be summoned before congressional committees.

"The churches should show they have real intention of cleaning house," said the Rev. James A. Pike, dean of the Protestant Episcopal Cathedral of St. John the Divine of New York city.

"If a man is a Communist he should be removed. I don't believe any man who is a Communist should be teaching in church institutions."

Rep. Clardy (R.-Mich.), a member of the House Committee, said the group is not interested in any investigation of the churches.

"We are trying to discover the nature of the Communist plot and ferret it out," Clardy said. He added that it is up to the churches themselves to take action against any Communists found in church positions.

Pike, who appeared with Clardy on an NBC television program, said many clergymen have been publicly described as Communists or sympathizers when they really were not.

"We must not confuse or weaken the prophetic task of the church to work for a better social order," he said. "The desire for change does not necessarily mean Marxist thought."

There are about a million strands in a human optic nerve.

Jewish Center Plans Special Services

Herman J. Eaton, president of the Jewish Community Council of Kingston announced that special high holy day services will be held at the Jewish Community Center, 265 Wall street September 9, 10, 11 and 19. The services will be conducted under the joint auspices of Congregations Agudus Achim, Ahavath Irsael and Temple Emanuel.

Eaton explained that arrangements were made to supplement the usual synagogue services for the convenience of those who are unable to attend services downtown. He expressed his appreciation to the three congregations in Kingston for their cooperation in sponsoring the uptown services and to the Jewish Community Center for making the facilities available without charge.

In view of the limited facilities of the center, Eaton urged all those who are interested in attending services uptown to secure tickets at once. These may be purchased at the Jewish Community Center any week day from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. or through either of the three synagogues. Fees have been fixed on a non profit basis and are designed only to cover expenses.

Pella Heads New Italian Cabinet

Rome, Aug. 17 (AP)—A new cabinet of Christian Democrats led by Giuseppe Pella was sworn in today, giving Italy a breather from political crisis.

President Luigi Einaudi administered the oath of ffice to the 51-year-old premier, a financial expert, in the presidential office.

Other cabinet members were sworn in in the neighboring Hall of the Madonna.

Missing from the lineup was the dominant figure of postwar Italian politics, eight-time Premier Alcide de Gasperi. Anxious for a rest and also to avoid controversy, he turned down the foreign minister's portfolio in a government which is committed to make only an administrative housecleaning and push no major policy measures.

The new cabinet will go before the Chamber of Deputies Wednesday. It seems certain to win a vote of confidence. The only parties pledged to vote against it are the Communists and Pietro Nenni's party-lin Socialists, who between them control only 218 of 590 seats.

Pella's new cabinet is made up of veteran administrators, all members of his own pro-western and middle-of-the-road Christian Democrat Party.

Pella himself is known as a firm friend of the U. S. and a believer in the Atlantic Alliance.

FIFTH COLUMN

. . . A spy force

This expression for sympathizers who aid the enemy, started in Spain during its recent civil war. As Franco's insurgent armies encircled Madrid, his general called to the opponents: "Four columns now surround Madrid, while the fifth is already at work within the city." Arrested on Charge Of Drunken Driving

Raymond Joseph Foley, 53, of Newark, N. J., was arrested on a charge of driving while intoxicated after his car left the Granite road, two miles east of Kerhonkson, at about 8:30 p. m., Saturday.

Foley, who suffered a broken nose and a scalp laceration, was taken to the county jail pending arraignment this afternoon before Justice of the Peace Herbert Poppel at Kerhonkson.

State police at Ellenville said that Thelma Halloway, 43, of New York, who was riding with Foley suffered leg and foot lacerations. Both were treated at the Veterans Memorial Hospital, Ellenville and were discharged.

Foley's car was headed north on the route when it left the road, went up an embankment and back on the road again, state police said.

Deny Bowlatorium Rumor

It was denied today by Raymond E. Craft, business real estate broker, that there is any deal pending for the sale of or operation of the former Ruzzo Bowlatorium as bowing alleys, at this time. The denial followed rumors currently circulating in the city to the effect that the Bowlatorium would again be used for bowling in the near future.

Okinawa Escapes Mighty Typhoon

Taipeh, Formosa, Aug. 17 (AP)—A wild typhoon ripped across the China mainland today after sideswiping the big American base at Okinawa and the Chinese Nationalist island of Formosa.

The Japanese weather bureau in Tokyo said the big storm, which changed course and did not hit Okinawa or Formosa with its full force, struck the China coast about 150 miles south of Shanghai.

The bureau said the typhoon, one of the mightiest ever recorded in the Pacific, was churning northwestward.

Okinawa escaped with minor damage, mostly to power lines, but northern Formosa was lashed with heavy rains and winds up to 69 miles an hour.

A record 12 inches of rain fell on Formosa's capital, Taipeh, in 12 hours, flooding the 75-acre compound that houses the American military assistance advisory group (MAAG). All the Americans were evacuated without injury.

Pella Heads New Italian Cabinet

Rome, Aug. 17 (AP)—A new cabinet of Christian Democrats led by Giuseppe Pella was sworn in today, giving Italy a breather from political crisis.

President Luigi Einaudi administered the oath of ffice to the 51-year-old premier, a financial expert, in the presidential office.

Other cabinet members were sworn in in the neighboring Hall of the Madonna.

Missing from the lineup was the dominant figure of postwar Italian politics, eight-time Premier Alcide de Gasperi. Anxious for a rest and also to avoid controversy, he turned down the foreign minister's portfolio in a government which is committed to make only an administrative housecleaning and push no major policy measures.

The new cabinet will go before the Chamber of Deputies Wednesday. It seems certain to win a vote of confidence. The only parties pledged to vote against it are the Communists and Pietro Nenni's party-lin Socialists, who between them control only 218 of 590 seats.

Grange News

Farm dollar is what the economists mean to be the share the farmer gets for producing his food and fibre. It is important, just as the wage earner's dollar, the manufacturer's dollar, and all the other income dollars, provide purchasing power that keep everyone on an even keel of prosperity. In 1945 the farmer was getting 54 cents of what the housewife paid for food. Since that time his share has been steadily less, until now it is around 43 cents. On the face of it, you might think that the housewife was paying less for food: actually she is now paying more, along with the general upward trend of all prices. This means that the middlemen and processors are getting more, the farmer less. This squeeze is a serious matter because the farmer as a consumer is one of the most stabilizing factors in our economy. Depress him, and we all feel it. Who gets what out of the consumer's dollar, as regards food, is an investigation as important as any that has been undertaken in Washington. It's long overdue, and may get some attention in the next Congress.

State Fair time draws nearer, and with it comes word that the Grange Service & Hospitality ladies are 'way ahead with their plans for an information and checking booth in the main Grange building on the fairgrounds. This is the first one inside the large main gate, on the right, and is the rallying point for Grangers who look for their friends, rest in the lounge, check excess belongings, and enjoy the daily amateur hours and organ music. S & H Committee is in charge of Mrs. Charles Arnold of Bergen, ably assisted by Mrs. Floyd Wilmot of Poolville, and Mrs. Guy Haviland, Sr., of Middleburgh.

Exhibits named in a recent column are coming along well, according to Charlie Riley, Grange superintendent. He will be helpful on any questions that may come up, and is spending much of his time on the grounds already.

Daily Bible School Graduates 61 Pupils

Graduating exercises for 61 students of the Daily Vacation Bible School of the First Assembly of God, 87 Fair street, were held Friday night. The school was in session for two weeks at the church and registration was 112.

Miss Violet Madigan was director of the school and teachers were Mrs. Ann Vinson, beginners; Mrs. Isabella Van Demark, primaries; the Rev. Robert R. Vinson, juniors; and Louis Huthsteiner, teenagers. Pianist was Miss Florence Van Demark.

Diplomas were presented to those who completed eight out of 10 days at school with special awards presented for perfect attendance and above average work.

Personal Notes

Special Deputy Sheriff and Mrs. Victor H. Osborn of 349 Clifton avenue announce the birth of a son born at Kingston Hospital Saturday, Aug. 8. Mrs. Osborn is the former Gladys Briggs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Briggs of Hurley.

Miss DeCicco is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael DeCicco of 20 Tietjen avenue.

Hundreds Flee as Fire Threatens More Homes

Cleveland, Aug. 17 (AP)—The wind shifted, and a hundred families fled in terror as great flames from the burning lumber yard reached hungrily for their homes.

Unsated by 17 million feet of lumber from the yard yesterday, the fire snatched one house, destroyed it and licked around another. For 15 long minutes it appeared the other dwellings were doomed.

Then as the fleeing residents looked back through the dense smoke, the wind suddenly changed again. The fire retreated to the 14½ ravished acres of the Dougherty Lumber Co., east side yard, and firemen were able to contain it.

"The hand of God," somebody said. Others breathed agreement.

Besides the lumber, the blaze destroyed 15 buildings and 12 sheds in five hours. Thomas Dougherty, president of the firm, estimated the loss at five million dollars.

The cause was not determined.

'THAT SMITH WOMAN'

A letter explains: "During our bridge club the other afternoon, one of the members referred to a neighbor as 'that Smith woman.' She said it in a tone that carried neither contempt nor dislike, but nevertheless it suggested a very uncivil attitude toward Mrs. Smith, and several of us questioned the propriety of such a phrase. In my opinion it was an extremely rude way to speak of Mrs. Smith. I would appreciate your commenting on this in your column."

To speak of anyone as "that Smith woman" is very disparaging.

Excluding Wife Not Discourteous

Dear Mrs. Post. My brother has just recently married and is living in another city. My mother thinks that it is no longer correct for any of us to write to him alone and that all future letters should include his wife. I do not agree with her on this and think it utterly ridiculous not to be able to write to a member of one's family alone. Not that we have anything to conceal from his wife but one does write a little differently when writing to one person What is your opinion?

Answer: Very definitely it is not necessary to always include the wife's name if you write very often; on the other hand, if you write very seldom then I think she should be included.

And Guest

Dear Mrs. Post: The company for which I work is going to give a large cocktail party this fall to celebrate its 25th anniversary. Invitations are to be sent to a long list of clients. Some of these are men, some women, in some cases married, others not. It would be impossible to find out about each one. How can the invitation be addressed to include all three possibilities. Is there a word we can use to denote husband, wife or friend?

Answer: The usual word is "Guest." Write Mr. John Smith and Guest or Mrs. Samuel Brown and Guest or Miss Mary Jones and Guest.

DANGER SPOT

Are your children safe at home? Did you know that in your kitchen they may be in constant danger?

One third of all fatal burns happen to children between one and five years old. The majority of these and many lesser, but still serious, burns come from ranges, grates, hot liquids, and matches — the kitchen booby traps.

Children cannot stand burn injuries as well as adults. When as much as 50 per cent of the body is burned, there is not much chance for recovery at any age. But many children die when as little as 30 per cent of the body surface is burned.

Common sense and careful supervision are the best prevention. Kitchen matches should be out of reach. That means that the ability of a small child to reach, climb, and scramble into seemingly impossible places should never be underestimated. Pans in which anything is cooking should be on the back stove burners when possible, and handles should be turned away from the edge of the stove. Most important of all, a small child should never be in the kitchen without supervision.

If, in spite of all precautions, a small child is burned, first aid measures can be taken. For a mild, or first degree burn, clean the skin with bland soap and water and apply a soothing ointment. The old fashioned butter or lard treatment will help, since there is little risk of infection or shock. In a second degree burn, blisters form. Do not open, but apply a bandage over ointment-treated gauze. If there is much pain, the doctor should be consulted. Serious second degree and all third degree burns require prompt medical attention, no matter how small an area of skin is involved.

This column is sponsored, in the interest of better health, by the Ulster County TB and Health Association, 74 John street.

Grange News

Farm dollar is what the economists mean to be the share the farmer gets for producing his food and fibre. It is important, just as the wage earner's dollar, the manufacturer's dollar, and all the other income dollars, provide purchasing power that keep everyone on an even keel of prosperity. In 1945 the farmer was getting 54 cents of what the housewife paid for food. Since that time his share has been steadily less, until now it is around 43 cents. On the face of it, you might think that the housewife was paying less for food: actually she is now paying more, along with the general upward trend of all prices. This means that the middlemen and processors are getting more, the farmer less. This squeeze is a serious matter because the farmer as a consumer is one of the most stabilizing factors in our economy. Depress him, and we all feel it. Who gets what out of the consumer's dollar, as regards food, is an investigation as important as any that has been undertaken in Washington. It's long overdue, and may get some attention in the next Congress.

State Fair time draws nearer, and with it comes word that the Grange Service & Hospitality ladies are 'way ahead with their plans for an information and checking booth in the main Grange building on the fairgrounds. This is the first one inside the large main gate, on the right, and is the rallying point for Grangers who look for their friends, rest in the lounge, check excess belongings, and enjoy the daily amateur hours and organ music. S & H Committee is in charge of Mrs. Charles Arnold of Bergen, ably assisted by Mrs. Floyd Wilmot of Poolville, and Mrs. Guy Haviland, Sr., of Middleburgh.

Exhibits named in a recent column are coming along well, according to Charlie Riley, Grange superintendent. He will be helpful on any questions that may come up, and is spending much of his time on the grounds already.

DOLLAR DISCIPLINE

By Harry C. France

When "Babe" Ruth, the home-run slugger, was getting $500 a day to display his unique prowess at the Yankee Stadium, New York city, Colonel Jacob Ruppert, the owner of the Yankees, learned of the ball-player's squandering. A yearly salary high in five figures was going down the drain.

The Colonel called the Babe in for a friendly talk. He reminded the great star that ball players don't last forever and that if thrift and savings habits were not established, Ruth would eventually find himself destitute. Then the hue and cry would go up: "Babe built the Yankee Stadium and now, in his poverty, he is alone."

The Colonel, by his thoughful act, started Ruth on a glorious road of self-reliant financial security. A trust fund was established and when the slugger's playing days were over, he had an annual income of five figures from this fund.

Within recent weeks, leading newspapers have carried prominent stories of two great artists who passed on leaving nothing but debts. One story is heartrending. A great performer, whose yearly earnings averaged $200,000 for a long time, died owing Uncle Sam a current tax bill of over $50,000.

Big earners who save nothing and die insolvent make the headlines. Of course, their cases are pathetic. Usually they also leave an unresourceful menage. By that I mean a great coterie of people whose very economic existence has been made possible by the big earner and who, by his passing, don't know where to turn.

What I think about when I read these case histories is the great multitude of people who do not have a Colonel Ruppert to check upon their thrift and savings habits. Ruth was fortunate in having an employer who, himself, was the epitome of the virtues associated with self-reliance.

Every life needs economic discipline. I don't care how little or how much a person has. All over America there are thousands of men and women who are as careless with their money as was Babe Ruth before Colonel Ruppert took hold of him.

In these days of high taxes and costs and prices, it is very easy to neglect the necessary economic disciplines. Dollars mean so little to so many. Yet, the best advice economically that can be given to multitudes of earners today is this: when your September paycheck arrives, take $5, $10, $20 to your neighborhood savings bank and open an account. And every payday thereafter deposit a like amount.

In the average family where squandering is normal procedure, it is highly desirable that a 'Colonel Ruppert' influence be introduced. Little is done by the savings banks in America to curb profligate spending. Squandering can lead to economic excess and moral degeneration. Come to New York and I'll show you some cases. Thrift is a positive virtue and its rewards should be widely publicized by all institutions promoting saving.

In families where the father or mother is thrifty or unduly lavish, one should take control of the finances. Thrift arguments usually easily triumph over wasteful spending. Young couples should never allow family spending policies to remain unsettled. Sometimes a husband is a squanderer and his wife a thrifty soul. Sometimes the reverse is true. These situations should be resolved before they are allowed to develop social trouble. And fair speech and a reasonable attitude will usually resolve them.

A young husband says: "We can't afford that $100 party. I've got a $96 insurance premium to pay next week!"

That is the type of economic discipline needed today in thousands of American homes.

He Went That-a-Way

Kansas City (AP)—Police figure this fellow may have seen one Western too many. He entered a Kansas City tavern, rapped two astonished patrons over the head with a pistol butt, fired a few shots into the ceiling, and calmly stalked out.

In the United States temperatures in September often are hotter than those in June.

As Pegler Sees It

partment of Justice was not enforcing his sentence for the conspiracy with the contractors.

This conspiracy is an old, familiar relationship between contractors or master-plumbers and the bosses of plumbers' locals and councils. It has been the subject of investigations and indictments under the Sherman Act for 40 years, but it never dies out.

Durkin's home union, in Chicago, Pipefitters' Local 597, the largest in the world with 8,000 "regular" members, has a notorious record compiled largely during Durkin's active career. During World War 2, when skilled labor was scarce in some areas, this local charged itinerant nonmembers a permit fee of $4.50 a month. An opportune fire destroyed some records but these might not have disclosed the amount collected from such licensees because this phase was not carried anywhere in the books. A chance discovery of an isolated record did indicate that 748 men were paying $4.50 a month for permission to work in the jurisdiction of Durkin's local in November, 1942. However, 1942 was not a "big" year in government war projects so this figure may be low.

During this period, Durkin was a member of the War Labor Board in Washington and overall president of the plumbers' union for the entire country. He had served a hitch in a meaningless sinecure as director of the Illinois State Labor Department which has to do with statistics and practically nothing else.

When court action was brought by the local to compel an accounting by Secretary-Treasurer George A. McKinley, Durkin was on the side of the angels, but this was a belated stand because he was a power in the local throughout the time in question. McKinley refused to testify about the money lest he incriminate himself.

Following the conviction of Alsup and his fellow conspirators in Las Vegas, another outrageous condition was discovered, typical of the trade where the union prevails. Plumbers who had been flunked by the local examining board, charged that tests were rigged to make it impossible for new journeymen and master-plumbers to work on the new resort hotels, gambling houses and government works of prodigious cost and scope.

The power of local plumbers' unions and local contractors to exclude workmen and contractors from the adjoining township, a few miles away, has become a flagrant racket. "Foreigners" are permitted to come in from adjacent neighborhoods, both as contractors and as journeymen but only under prohibitive license fees. They may also take the examinations, but the examiners often flunk qualified men of long experience, thus protecting their own local monopolies.

St. Joseph's CYO Qualifies For Archdiocesenal Finals Sunday

Defeat Manhattan, 7-6 Behind Reis' Pitching

St. Joseph's CYO baseball team shaded St. Cecilia's of Manhattan, 7 to 6 Saturday at Riverview Field in Poughkeepsie to qualify for the Archdiocesenal championship final next Sunday at Fordham University field at New York.

Holy Cross of the Bronx shut out Mt. Carmel Juniors of Poughkeepsie, 3-0, to qualify for the right to meet Kingston in the playoff.

Southpaw Frank Reis yielded eight hits but was effective in the pinches of a close and exciting game in which both teams scored a run in the last inning. He also contributed a triple to St. Joseph's 12-hit attack on Harry Vasquez, who atoned somewhat for his pitching deficiencies by slamming Reis for a double and two singles in three trips to the plate.

Ashdown on Spree

Ronnie Ashdown, Reis' battery mate, was St. Joseph's batting hero with a triple, two singles and walk in four times at bat. Joey Hoffman slugged two singles for the locals.

Kingston scored a run in the first inning but trailed 2-1 and the end of two. Then Joe Hoffman singled, Tony Altamore walked and Ronnie Ashdown drove home two runs after Hoffman and Altamore pulled a double steal.

A double, single, error and walk sent St. Cecilia ahead 4-3 in the fourth only to have St. Joseph's rally for a trio in the top of the inning when Ronnie Ashdown powdered a two-run triple behind Joe Hoffman's single and an error on Bob Fay's hard liner to the outfield. Ashdown scored a moment later on a passed ball.

The New Yorkers made it 6-5 in the sixth but the locals picked up the insurance marker they needed in the seventh.

The Holy Cross pitcher, Fred Schabl, limited Poughkeepsie's Mt. Carmel squad to only two hits and fanned seven in the nightcap. Ralph Nieri, the Poughkeepsie High School flinger, allowed four hits and whiffed eight.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

Don Evans, who is billed in wrestling as the "Kingston Killer" but in private life is a gentleman farmer in Flatbush, is just about the hottest item in professional wrestling today.

After a series of Saturday night headline bouts on the Chicago TV network, Big Don has been wowing them around the country and, specifically, at Oneonta and Troy and Albany.

Evans is a notorious bad man among the grapplers and is sharing headlines with the likes of Yukon Eric, Verne Gagne, Sonny Meyers, Pat O'Connor and the villainous Hans Schmidt.

Schmidt comes pretty close to being the nastiest person in the wrestling game. And Yukon Eric, the biggest man in the game, defeated Evans recently at Oneonta where folks are scurrying down from the hills to watch the rasslers in record breaking numbers. The press accounts said Eric, the glandular freak from the Arctic, "handled Evans with ease." Wanna bet?

Wrestling folks in the arenas, the armchairs at home and in taverns take their game pretty seriously. If the big wheels that control the wrestling syndicates were to turn Evans and Schmidt loose in a shooting match, they could fill any ball park in the country. This clash of wrestling's Neanderthal men would be the roughest donnybrook in the history of the game. But, have no fear, it will not come to pass. They are both too valuable in their own element and the match would not prove much. The feeling here is that, with all the window dressing removed, Evans would be a match for anybody in the game.

"They go through the motions of putting on vaudeville acts that feature disgusting routines such as bleached hair, perfume, fancy bathrobes and one phony hold that invariably winds up the show," testifies the champion of 30 years ago in a recent national magazine article.

The venerable Pole, now 73, obviously living in the past, has failed to keep step with the times. He would return wrestling to the nights when behemoths pushed, pulled and squirmed on the canvas for hours, requiring the spectators to be night watchmen. The flying tackle, and all that went with it, were here to stay when Gus Sonnenberg brought it in as his excuse for beating Ed Strangler Lewis on a summer night in 1929.

The world is traveling at atomic speed. The customers demand the acrobatics, antics, drama and excitement furnished by their wrestling heroes and villains. Zbyszko casts a trained eye on the antiquated dodge's current theatrics and yearns for a return of the old days. But everybody is having a lot of fun and the headline grapplers are making a lot of money. So why throw cold water on a good production. The wrestling fans like it. And they're paying the freight.

• Quick Preview of the Irish:

How strong will Notre Dame be in 1953? Excellent. 23 out of 32 letter winners return, including all the 1952 stars except guard Jack Alessandri. The Fighting Irish ranked No. 3 in the Associated Press poll of 1952, could go higher this time.

Such mainstays as Johnny Lattner, Dan Shannon, Neil Worden, Joe Heap, Ralph Guglielmi, James Schrader, Frank Varrichone and Art Hunter will return. They get their test early, at Norman, Oklahoma, on Sept. 26, when they try to break Oklahoma's record of not having met defeat at Owen Field for the last six years and having won 25 consecutive games at home. Notre Dame beat Oklahoma 27-21 in a TV classic last fall at South Bend.

The Fighting Irish whipped four conference champions and tied a fifth in 1952—Penn, 7-7, Ivy League; Texas, 14-3, Southwest Conference; Purdue, 26-14, co-Big Ten; Oklahoma, 27-21, Big Seven; Southern Cal, 9-0, Pacific Coast. Texas later won the Cotton Bowl championship and Southern California the Rose Bowl.

Frank Leahy still weeps but Notre Dame could go all the way this year.

Americans Trip Nationals 4-0 In All-Star Contest

After the veteran Americans had blanked the first-year Nationals, 4-0, on the one-hit pitching of Mike Amato, the combined membership of the two circuits consumed several hundred hot dogs and cases of soda pop.

Officials of the leagues, directors, managers, coaches and umpires joined in the fun.

The Americans collected only five hits off three National flingers but bunched them for four runs in the first three innings. Norman Heppner was the loser.

The lone National hit was a single by Terry Corkery. Charlie Boice slugged two singles for the Americans. Tom Cragan, Don Krueger and Vic Locke garnered the others.

Middlecoff Faces Wall in Playoff

Fort Wayne, Ind., Aug. 17 (AP)—Veteran Cary Middlecoff of Memphis and unknown Art Wall, Jr., of Pocono Manor, Pa., play an extra 18 holes today to decide the championship of the Fort Wayne Open golf tournament.

First place was worth $2,400 and second $1,800.

The two matched 65s Sunday to finish the 72-hole distance in 269 each, breaking by four strokes the tournamant record set by Jim Ferrier of San Francisco in 1951.

Birdie putts on the 450-yard 18th hole that dropped for Wall and didn't for Middlecoff threw the tournament into a playoff. Wall had chipped in for eagle deuces on the 3rd and 17th, each 275 yards long.

Wall, 25 years old and in his second year on the touranment circuit, never has won a major event.

By AL McCLANE
(Fishing Editor)

Midsummer is the time for long, fine leaders, whether you are fishing wet or dry flies for trout or bucktails and bugs for bass. Of course, you can't cast a large bug on a 3X leader, but most fishermen err in using leaders too heavy rather than too light. The trout fisherman often can use leaders from 10 to 15 long to advantage. I believe a long leader is better than an excessively fine one.

A medium-weight, 6-foot to 7¼-foot leader is usually suggested for wet-fly fishing. Wet-fly leaders ordinarily are heavier than dry-fly leaders, because the sunken leader is not seen so easily as one on or near the surface.

I believe this reasoning is faulty, however, and I feel that a leader as light as is consistent with the size of the fish should be used. A No. 10 wet-fly on the end of a heavy leader is just about as lifeless as anything imaginable. The leader is so stiff that the fly has very little, if any, movement except when it is being drawn upstream. A light leader, however, allows the fly to twist, turn and drift naturally in the water.

A light leader can be used safely with a streamer, bucktail, or spinner if conditions demand it—an admittedly unusual occurrence, however.

As a general rule, a 1X leader is light enough for any of them, and that weight or heavier should be used whenever possible because trout often strike these lures hard against a tight line.

When a leader as light as 3X seems to be necessary, it can be used safely if the rod is kept high so the tip bends and absorbs the shock. A low rod usually is responsible for a leader broken on the strike.

Returning POWs Tell Of New Red Jets

Freedom Village, Aug. 17 (AP)—Three returned American prisoners told today of seeing a new Communist twin-engine jet fighter-bomber at an airbase near the North Korean capital, Ypongyang only two days ago.

The prisoners also told of seeing new swept wing fighter jets over North Korea.

"They were smaller than MIGs," said Cpl. Frank Borrelli, 26, of San Francisco.

Cpl. Charles W. Jewell, 23, of Wilmington, Del., said he saw nine Red jet bombers flying in formation as he passed through Pyongyang on his way to exchange. Jewell said he thought the Reds were "showing the people what they had."

Cpl. Michael A. Giannini, 22, of Huntington Station, N. Y., said he saw three twin-engine jet bombers over Pyongyang escorted by half a dozen MIGs.

The SCOREBOARD

(By The Associated Press)

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

With six weeks to go, the baseball season has just about boiled down to a question of who's going to pitch the World Series opener for the New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers.

Both could blow the pennants. It is possible, remembering '51. But since both have 40 to play and eight-game leads, the smart guys are getting buddy buddy with the Yank and Dodger ticket sellers.

The Yanks enjoyed a profitable Sunday, picking up a game and a half on second-place Chicago and two full games on third-place Cleveland by knocking off the Philadelphia A's 8-0 and 7-3. Chicago bowed to Detroit's Ralph Branca 3-2 and Cleveland dropped a pair to the last place St. Louis Browns 7-6 and 7-5.

Washington and Boston divided a double in the other American League games, Mel Parnell winning his 17th for the Red Sox 4-1 and Spec Shea taking the second for Washington 7-4 despite Ted Williams' home run.

Nine for Brooks

Brooklyn ran its winning streak to nine by knocking off their old Pittsburgh sparmates twice 3-1 and 9-5 but Milwaukee kept step by sweeping two from Chicago 4-2 and 6-2.

The New York Giants ruined Robin Roberts' bid for his 21st victory by knocking him out in the eighth inning of an 8-1 game and also whipped the Phillies in the second game 4-3. Cincinnati edged St. Louis 3-2 but the Cards' grabbed the second 6-2 behind Stu Miller. The split and Philadelphia's twin defeat left St. Louis tied with the Phils for third place, 15 games back.

Vic Raschi came up with another of his oldtime efforts, a five-hit shutout of the A's to win his 10th with the help of Phil Rizzuto's homer with two on and two-run double.

Allie Reynolds lasted only one inning of the second game and the Yanks needed a five-hit relief chore by Johnny Sain to whip Charley Bishop. Rizzuto drove in the tying run and scored the tie-breaker in the sixth.

Branca had to stave off a ninth inning rally by the White Sox to win for Detroit. The tying run was on third when pinchhitter Bob Elliott flied out to end the game.

Indians Clobbered

Harry Brecheen and Dick Littlefield, both working in relief, dealt damaging blows to what was left of Cleveland's pennant hopes by copping a pair for the Brownies. Brecheen pitched three and two-thirds inning, facing the minimum of 11 batters, to win on Dick Kryhoski's single. Littlefield, first game starter, received credit for the second game after St. Louis knocked out Bob Lemon.

Ted Williams made his first start tor the Red Sox in the second game but his homer and double weren't enough. Ted left after five innings in accordance with previously announced plans for his gradual conditioning program. Parnell needed Ellis Kinder's 55th relief job and a sensational catch by Jim Piersall on Mickey Vernon's near-homer to become the American's first 17-game winner in the opener.

Snider Hits Three

Duke Snider hit three home runs, making it 27 for the year, as the Dodgers bowled over Pittsburgh twice for 15 out of 16 this season. Preacher Roe scattered eight hits in the first game, but Carl Erskine needed a hand from Clem Labine to win his 14th when the Pirates rallied with four in the second game's eighth inning.

Lew Burdette, on relief, and 23-year-old Bob Buhl, with a three-hit complete game, did the pitching for Milwaukee against the Cubs. Eddie Mathews' triple in the eighth scored two runs for a 4-2 edge in the opener.

The Giants bounced back to the .500 mark behind a pair of six-hitters by Jim Hearn and Ruben Gomez. Bobby Thomson hit a home run with the bases loaded in the first game and Al Dark, Whitey Lockman and Dusty Rhodes homered off Karl Drews to help Gomez win his 10th.

Ted Kluszewski smashed home runs in each game for a season total of 36, breaking the Cincinnati all-time club record of 35 set by Hank Sauer in 1948.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)

Batting — Duke Snyder, Dodgers, hit three home runs in Brooklyn's doubleheader sweep over Pittsburgh 3-1 and 9-5.

Champion Victim Of Prize Upset

Smith, one of the few repeaters in Twaalfskill annals, carded a front nine 37 against Boice's bogie-ridden 42 and closed out the match with a par-3 on the 15th hole.

Always a tough competitor at match play, Smith started his unexpected victory surge after a bogie-5 on the third hole. Boice went one-up with a one-over 4 but lost three of the next four holes, won the eighth and lost the ninth.

Smith birdied the No. 4 hole, they halved the fifth in regulation before but Boice slipped one over on the 6th. He got that back on the eighth but double-bogied the ninth while Smith canned his four. That gave Smith a 37 to Boice's 42 and put him a 2-up margin.

Extends Lead

Smith extended his lead to 3-up with a bogie-4 on the 12th when Boice slipped two-over. They halved the 13th before Smith went 4-up on the long 14th and closed out the amazing upset over the three-time champion on the 15th hole.

John Van Gonsic who defeated Maurice Hand, 4 and 3, will meet Smith in a semi-final match next Saturday.

In other quarter final action, George Hughes clobbered Dr. Robert McCaig of Saugerties, 9 and 7, and Clarence "Dubby" Raichle eliminated Ernest Schirmer, 7 and 5.

The Smith-Boice card:

Par Out	433	453	544	–35
Boice Out ..	534	454	746	–42
Smith Out ..	535	353	454	–37
Par In	433	454	544	–35
Boice In	435	463	...
Smith In ...	434	453	...

Kingstons Nip Hercules In Recreation Loop, 5-4

Secreto's Three-Run Homer Is Key Blow

The Kingston entry in the Recreation League roughed Jack Houghtaling up for five runs in the third inning to squeeze out a 5-4 decision over Hercules, Sunday at municipal stadium.

Houghtaling was untouchable in the other innings but the one big uprising was just enought to give the Kingstons and Frank Secreto the surprise victory.

Nine men went to the plate in the big inning. Jim Woods started with a single, went to second on Brodhead's miscue and stole third. Jack Cannon walked after Bob Fay flied out and Houghtaling walked John Armstrong to load the sacks.

Two big hits followed in quick succession. Joe Modica singled to right for two RBIs and Secreto won his own game with a three-run homer to deep left field.

Hercules went ahead 1-0 in the first on Skipper Brodhead's triple to left center and scored on Turck's sacrifice. An error, two passed balls and singles by Godwin and Jackson accounted for three Hercules markers in the fourth.

Jim Jackson went "3 for 3" for the Powdermen with a triple and two singles. John Godwin had two singles. Bob Fay slammed two doubles and Secreto hit a homer and single for the Kingstons.

Becker Scores At Rhinebeck

Vinnie Becker of Red Hook captured Saturday night's 30-lap feature stock race at Rhinebeck Speedway.

Becker grabbed an early lead in his new Ford and held it all the way. Don Cronk, Ray "Zero" Brown and Stan Disbrow trailed in that order.

It was announced that the bulk of Saturday's field would return for the schoolboy rowing benefit program Tuesday night and again next Saturday.

Heat winners were Ray Devine, Stan Disbrow, Ray Brown, with Paul Disbrow copping the first semi-final and Hy Gardner wining the second. Messina copped the consolation.

When Native Dancer scored at Arlington Park he boosted his 3-year-old earnings to $428,075, which amount was $229,000 more than any other horse won during 1953.

St. Joseph's CYO Qualifies For Archdiocesenal Finals Sunday

Defeat Manhattan, 7-6 Behind Reis' Pitching

St. Joseph's CYO baseball team shaded St. Cecilia's of Manhattan, 7 to 6 Saturday at Riverview Field in Poughkeepsie to qualify for the Archdiocesenal championship final next Sunday at Fordham University field at New York.

Holy Cross of the Bronx shut out Mt. Carmel Juniors of Poughkeepsie, 3-0, to qualify for the right to meet Kingston in the playoff.

Southpaw Frank Reis yielded eight hits but was effective in the pinches of a close and exciting game in which both teams scored a run in the last inning. He also contributed a triple to St. Joseph's 12-hit attack on Harry Vasquez, who atoned somewhat for his pitching deficiencies by slamming Reis for a double and two singles in three trips to the plate.

Ashdown on Spree

Ronnie Ashdown, Reis' battery mate, was St. Joseph's batting hero with a triple, two singles and walk in four times at bat. Joey Hoffman slugged two singles for the locals.

Kingston scored a run in the first inning but trailed 2-1 and the end of two. Then Joe Hoffman singled, Tony Altamore walked and Ronnie Ashdown drove home two runs after Hoffman and Altamore pulled a double steal.

A double, single, error and walk sent St. Cecilia ahead 4-3 in the fourth only to have St. Joseph's rally for a trio in the top of the inning when Ronnie Ashdown powdered a two-run triple behind Joe Hoffman's single and an error on Bob Fay's hard liner to the outfield. Ashdown scored a moment later on a passed ball.

The New Yorkers made it 6-5 in the sixth but the locals picked up the insurance marker they needed in the seventh.

The Holy Cross pitcher, Fred Schabl, limited Poughkeepsie's Mt. Carmel squad to only two hits and fanned seven in the nightcap. Ralph Nieri, the Poughkeepsie High School flinger, allowed four hits and whiffed eight.

Bantams Seek American Champ

New York, Aug. 17 (AP)—The neglected bantamweight class, a lively boxing division in the days of Pete Herman, Joe Lynch and Tony Canzoneri, makes a comeback tonight with a North American championship match.

Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway will be the scene of the 12-round match between Henry (Pappy) Gault of Spartanburg, S. C., the North American champ, and Billy Peacock, former Philadelphia amateur titleholder now fighting out of Los Angeles.

The bout between the two 118-pounders will be seen on television (Dumont) in some sections of the nation.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

Don Evans, who is billed in wrestling as the "Kingston Killer" but in private life is a gentleman farmer in Flatbush, is just about the hottest item in professional wrestling today.

After a series of Saturday night headline bouts on the Chicago TV network, Big Don has been wowing them around the country and, specifically, at Oneonta and Troy and Albany.

Evans is a notorious bad man among the grapplers and is sharing headlines with the likes of Yukon Eric, Verne Gagne, Sonny Meyers, Pat O'Connor and the villainous Hans Schmidt.

Schmidt comes pretty close to being the nastiest person in the wrestling game. And Yukon Eric, the biggest man in the game, defeated Evans recently at Oneonta where folks are scurrying down from the hills to watch the rasslers in record breaking numbers. The press accounts said Eric, the glandular freak from the Arctic, "handled Evans with ease." Wanna bet?

Wrestling folks in the arenas, the armchairs at home and in taverns take their game pretty seriously. If the big wheels that control the wrestling syndicates were to turn Evans and Schmidt loose in a shooting match, they could fill any ball park in the country. This clash of wrestling's Neanderthal men would be the roughest donnybrook in the history of the game. But, have no fear, it will not come to pass. They are both too valuable in their own element and the match would not prove much. The feeling here is that, with all the window dressing removed, Evans would be a match for anybody in the game.

The rabid enthusiasm of wrestling addicts amazes people whose sophistication—alleged, assimilated or natural—leaves them cold when they watch the histrionics of the merry men of matdom.

The purists rebel and scream. Stanislaus Zbyszko, one of the great champions of the "old era" of wrestling, says practically all professional heavyweights of today are merely buffoons.

"They go through the motions of putting on vaudeville acts that feature disgusting routines such as bleached hair, perfume, fancy bathrobes and one phony hold that invariably winds up the show," testifies the champion of 30 years ago in a recent national magazine article.

The venerable Pole, now 73, obviously living in the past, has failed to keep step with the times. He would return wrestling to the nights when behemoths pushed, pulled and squirmed on the canvas for hours, requiring the spectators to be night watchmen. The flying tackle, and all that went with it, were here to stay when Gus Sonnenberg brought it in as his excuse for beating Ed Strangler Lewis on a summer night in 1929.

The world is traveling at atomic speed. The customers demand the acrobatics, antics, drama and excitement furnished by their wrestling heroes and villains. Zbyszko casts a trained eye on the antiquated dodge's current theatrics and yearns for a return of the old days. But everybody is having a lot of fun and the headline grapplers are making a lot of money. So why throw cold water on a good production. The wrestling fans like it. And they're paying the freight.

• Quick Preview of the Irish:

How strong will Notre Dame be in 1953? Excellent. 23 out of 32 letter winners return, including all the 1952 stars except guard Jack Alessandri. The Fighting Irish ranked No. 3 in the Associated Press poll of 1952, could go higher this time.

Such mainstays as Johnny Lattner, Dan Shannon, Neil Worden, Joe Heap, Ralph Guglielmi, James Schrader, Frank Varrichone and Art Hunter will return. They get their test early, at Norman, Oklahoma, on Sept. 26, when they try to break Oklahoma's record of not having met defeat at Owen Field for the last six years and having won 25 consecutive games at home. Notre Dame beat Oklahoma 27-21 in a TV classic last fall at South Bend.

The Fighting Irish whipped four conference champions and tied a fifth in 1952—Penn, 7-7, Ivy League; Texas, 14-3, Southwest Conference; Purdue, 26-14, co-Big Ten; Oklahoma, 27-21, Big Seven; Southern Cal, 9-0, Pacific Coast. Texas later won the Cotton Bowl championship and Southern California the Rose Bowl.

Frank Leahy still weeps but Notre Dame could go all the way this year.

Americans Trip Nationals 4-0 In All-Star Contest

Little League baseball staged its final shindig of the season Saturday with an all-star game between the Americans and National loops at Hasbrouck Park.

After the veteran Americans had blanked the first-year Nationals, 4-0, on the one-hit pitching of Mike Amato, the combined membership of the two circuits consumed several hundred hot dogs and cases of soda pop.

Officials of the leagues, directors, managers, coaches and umpires joined in the fun.

The Americans collected only five hits off three National flingers but bunched them for four runs in the first three innings. Norman Heppner was the loser.

The lone National hit was a single by Terry Corkery. Charlie Boice slugged two singles for the Americans. Tom Cragan, Don Krueger and Vic Locke garnered the others.

Middlecoff Faces Wall in Playoff

Fort Wayne, Ind., Aug. 17 (AP)—Veteran Cary Middlecoff of Memphis and unknown Art Wall, Jr., of Poccno Manor, Pa., play an extra 18 holes today to decide the championship of the Fort Wayne Open golf tournament.

First place was worth $2,400 and second $1,800.

The two matched 65s Sunday to finish the 72-hole distance in 269 each, breaking by four strokes the tournamant record set by Jim Ferrier of San Francisco in 1951.

Birdie putts on the 450-yard 18th hole that dropped for Wall and didn't for Middlecoff threw the tournament into a playoff. Wall had chipped in for eagle deuces on the 3rd and 17th, each 275 yards long.

Wall, 25 years old and in his second year on the touranment circuit, never has won a major event.

Becker Scores At Rhinebeck

Vinnie Becker of Red Hook captured Saturday night's 30-lap feature stock race at Rhinebeck Speedway.

Becker grabbed an early lead in his new Ford and held it all the way. Don Cronk, Ray "Zero" Brown and Stan Disbrow trailed in that order.

It was announced that the bulk of Saturday's field would return for the schoolboy rowing benefit program Tuesday night and again next Saturday.

Heat winners were Ray Devine, Stan Disbrow, Ray Brown, with Paul Disbrow copping the first semi-final and Hy Gardner wining the second. Messina copped the consolation.

When Native Dancer scored at Arlington Park he boosted his 3-year-old earnings to $428,075, which amount was $229,000 more than any other horse won during 1953.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By AL McCLANE
(Fishing Editor)

Midsummer is the time for long, fine leaders, whether you are fishing wet or dry flies for trout or bucktails and bugs for bass. Of course, you can't cast a large bug on a 3X leader, but most fishermen err in using leaders too heavy rather than too light. The trout fisherman often can use leaders from 10 to 15 long to advantage. I believe a long leader is better than an excessively fine one.

A medium-weight, 6-foot to 7¼-foot leader is usually suggested for wet-fly fishing. Wet-fly leaders ordinarily are heavier than dry-fly leaders, because the sunken leader is not seen so easily as one on or near the surface.

I believe this reasoning is faulty, however, and I feel that a leader as light as is consistent with the size of the fish should be used. A No. 10 wet-fly on the end of a heavy leader is just about as lifeless as anything imaginable. The leader is so stiff that the fly has very little, if any, movement except when it is being drawn upstream. A light leader, however, allows the fly to twist, turn and drift naturally in the water.

A light leader can be used safely with a streamer, bucktail, or spinner if conditions demand it—an admittedly unusual occurrence, however.

As a general rule, a 1X leader is light enough for any of them, and that weight or heavier should be used whenever possible because trout often strike these lures hard against a tight line.

When a leader as light as 3X seems to be necessary, it can be used safely if the rod is kept high so the tip bends and absorbs the shock. A low rod usually is responsible for a leader broken on the strike.

Returning POWs Tell Of New Red Jets

Freedom Village, Aug. 17 (AP)—Three returned American prisoners told today of seeing a new Communist twin-engine jet fighter-bomber at an airbase near the North Korean capital, Ypongyang only two days ago.

The prisoners also told of seeing new swept wing fighter jets over North Korea.

"They were smaller than MIGs," said Cpl. Frank Borrelli, 26, of San Francisco.

Cpl. Charles W. Jewell, 23, of Wilmington, Del., said he saw nine Red jet bombers flying in formation as he passed through Pyongyang on his way to exchange. Jewell said he thought the Reds were "showing the people what they had."

Cpl. Michael A. Giannini, 22, of Huntington Station, N. Y., said he saw three twin-engine jet bombers over Pyongyang escorted by half a dozen MIGs.

British officials report that in 1939 they could pay for a ton of copper by exporting 16 sewing machines, but in 1952 it was necessary to export 21.

Lou Smith Upsets Boice At Twaalfskill, 4 and 3

The SCOREBOARD

(By The Associated Press)

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

With six weeks to go, the baseball season has just about boiled down to a question of who's going to pitch the World Series opener for the New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers.

Both could blow the pennants. It is possible, remembering '51. But since both have 40 to play and eight-game leads, the smart guys are getting buddy buddy with the Yank and Dodger ticket sellers.

The Yanks enjoyed a profitable Sunday, picking up a game and a half on second-place Chicago and two full games on third-place Cleveland by knocking off the Philadelphia A's 8-0 and 7-3. Chicago bowed to Detroit's Ralph Branca 3-2 and Cleveland dropped a pair to the last place St. Louis Browns 7-6 and 7-5.

Washington and Boston divided a double in the other American League games, Mel Parnell winning his 17th for the Red Sox 4-1 and Spec Shea taking the second for Washington 7-4 despite Ted Williams' home run.

Nine for Brooks

Brooklyn ran its winning streak to nine by knocking off their old Pittsburgh sparmates twice 3-1 and 9-5 but Milwaukee kept step by sweeping two from Chicago 4-2 and 6-2.

The New York Giants ruined Robin Roberts' bid for his 21st victory by knocking him out in the eighth inning of an 8-1 game and also whipped the Phillies in the second game 4-3. Cincinnati edged St. Louis 3-2 but the Cards' grabbed the second 6-2 behind Stu Miller. The split and Philadelphia's twin defeat left St. Louis tied with the Phils for third place, 15 games back.

Vic Raschi came up with another of his oldtime efforts, a five-hit shutout of the A's to win his 10th with the help of Phil Rizzuto's homer with two on and two-run double.

Allie Reynolds lasted only one inning of the second game and the Yanks needed a five-hit relief chore by Johnny Sain to whip Charley Bishop. Rizzuto drove in the tying run and scored the tiebreaker in the sixth.

Branca had to stave off a ninth inning rally by the White Sox to win for Detroit. The tying run was on third when pinchhitter Bob Elliott flied out to end the game.

Indians Clobbered

Harry Brecheen and Dick Littlefield, both working in relief, dealt damaging blows to what was left of Cleveland's pennant hopes by copping a pair for the Brownies. Brecheen pitched three and two-thirds inning, facing the minimum of 11 batters, to win on Dick Kryhoski's single. Littlefield, first game starter, received credit for the second game after St. Louis knocked out Bob Lemon.

Ted Williams made his first start for the Red Sox in the second game but his homer and double weren't enough. Ted left after five innings in accordance with previously announced plans for his gradual conditioning program. Parnell needed Ellis Kinder's 55th relief job and a sensational catch by Jim Piersall on Mickey Vernon's near-homer to become the American's first 17-game winner in the opener.

Snider Hits Three

Duke Snider hit three home runs, making it 27 for the year, as the Dodgers bowled over Pittsburgh twice for 15 out of 16 this season. Preacher Roe scattered eight hits in the first game, but Carl Erskine needed a hand from Clem Labine to win his 14th when the Pirates rallied with four in the second game's eighth inning.

Lew Burdette, on relief, and 23-year-old Bob Buhl, with a three-hit complete game, did the pitching for Milwaukee against the Cubs. Eddie Mathews' triple in the eighth scored two runs for a 4-2 edge in the opener.

The Giants bounced back to the .500 mark behind a pair of six-hitters by Jim Hearn and Ruben Gomez. Bobby Thomson hit a home run with the bases loaded in the first game and Al Dark, Whitey Lockman and Dusty Rhodes homered off Karl Drews to help Gomez win his 10th.

Ted Kluszewski smashed home runs in each game for a season total of 36, breaking the Cincinnati all-time club record of 35 set by Hank Sauer in 1948.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)

Batting — Duke Snyder, Dodgers, hit three home runs in Brooklyn's doubleheader sweep over Pittsburgh 3-1 and 9-5.

Champion Victim Of Prize Upset

Lou Smith, a two-time former club champion at Twaalfskill, scored a spectacular upset over defending champion, Alvin Boice, by a 4 and 3 margin in quarter final action at the midtown club.

Smith, one of the few repeaters in Twaalfskill annals, carded a front nine 37 against Boice's bogie-ridden 42 and closed out the match with a par-3 on the 15th hole.

Always a tough competitor at match play, Smith started his unexpected victory surge after a bogie-5 on the third hole. Boice went one-up with a one-over 4 but lost three of the next four holes, won the eighth and lost the ninth.

Smith birdied the No. 4 hole, they halved the fifth in regulation before but Boice slipped one over on the 6th. He got that back on the eighth but double-bogied the ninth while Smith canned his four. That gave Smith a 37 to Boice's 42 and put him a 2-up margin.

Extends Lead

Smith extended his lead to 3-up with a bogie-4 on the 12th when Boice slipped two-over. They halved the 13th before Smith went 4-up on the long 14th and closed out the amazing upset over the three-time champion on the 15th hole.

John Van Gonsic who defeated Maurice Hand, 4 and 3, will meet Smith in a semi-final match next Saturday.

In other quarter final action, George Hughes clobbered Dr. Robert McCaig of Saugerties, 9 and 7, and Clarence "Dubby" Raichle eliminated Ernest Schirmer, 7 and 5.

The Smith-Boice card:

Par Out	433	453	544	-35
Boice Out ..	534	454	746	-42
Smith Out ..	535	353	454	-37
Par In	433	454	544	-35

Kingstons Nip Hercules In Recreation Loop, 5-4

Secreto's Three-Run Homer Is Key Blow

The Kingston entry in the Recreation League roughed Jack Houghtaling up for five runs in the third inning to squeeze out a 5-4 decision over Hercules, Sunday at municipal stadium.

Houghtaling was untouchable in the other innings but the one big uprising was just enought to give the Kingstons and Frank Secreto the surprise victory.

Nine men went to the plate in the big inning. Jim Woods started with a single, went to second on Brodhead's miscue and stole third. Jack Cannon walked after Bob Fay flied out and Houghtaling walked John Armstrong to load the sacks.

Two big hits followed in quick succession. Joe Modica singled to right for two RBIs and Secreto won his own game with a three-run homer to deep left field.

Hercules went ahead 1-0 in the first on Skipper Brodhead's triple to left center and scored on Turck's sacrifice. An error, two passed balls and singles by Godwin and Jackson accounted for three Hercules markers in the fourth.

Jim Jackson went "3 for 3" for the Powdermen with a triple and two singles. John Godwin had two singles. Bob Fay slammed two doubles and Secreto hit a homer and single for the Kingstons.

Bridge City Nine Takes Early Lead With Two Straight

Weekend Results

Poughkeepsie 10, Newburgh 7.
Poughkeepsie 9, Kingston 2.
Newburgh 18, Kingston 5.

Poughkeepsie's resourceful All Stars emerged as the No. 1 team in the Hudson valley round robin series over the weekend with impressive victories over Kingston and Newburgh.

The Bridge City nine whipped the Colonials, 9 to 2, behind Billy Ostrom Saturday night at municipal stadium and then overpowered the Newburgh Jewels, 10 to 7, Sunday night at Riverview Field.

The Jewels clobbered the Colonials, 18 to 5, with a 16-hit barrage against three local flingers Sunday afternoon at the Hill City.

Ferraro Victim

Kingston got a sound pitching performance from Jim Ferraro Saturday night but gave him shoddy support in the field. Only three of the nine Poughkeepsie markers were earned.

Ostrom, the fabulous Billy The Kid of Recreation days, revealed that he had lost his overpowering stuff but his southpaw knucklers and slow serves kept Kingston under control in the pinches. He scattered nine hits and fanned six. The winners were credited with 11 off Ferraro but many arrived after the side should have been retired.

Zeke Klosterman and Gerry Bechtold were treated harshly by Newburgh, particularly the middle of the batting order where Lou Negro pounded a single, double and grand slam homer. Evans stroked three singles for the Jewels.

After Kingston scored three times in the first inning on Harry Kite's two-run double and an infield out, the Jewels tied in their half and then racked up 15 runs in the next five frames.

Carmen Donato and Frank Gendardo, who pitched the ninth, held Kingston at bay for the remainder of the game.

Big Sal Misasi unloaded a tremendous line drive homer over the left centerfield wall for Kingston's final marker in the ninth.

Poughkeepsie spotted Newburgh four runs in the top of the first and then bounced back to shell Jim Lawson for six hits and eight runs in their half. Charlie Benefield turned in a sterling relief job for the Jewels, yielding only five hits and two runs in 8 1/3 innings while fanning 10.

Dick Whitesell pitched the first eight innings for his team. About 300 saw the game.

Harry Kite hit a single and triple in Saturday's game and Tom Murphy hit two solo swats. At Newburgh, Tom Carlino, Harry Kite (single and double) and Red Gorsline had two swats apiece.

Poughkeepsie led 6-0 when the Colonials jarred Ostrom momentarily in the sixth on Harry Kite's triple to the right centerfield alley and Bill Glaser's single. Kite singled across another run with the bases loaded in the seventh but Schaffer was thrown out at the plate on a fine relay from Leo Elwell, the former Poughkeepsie High School athletic great.

NCAA Clears Bradley Cats But Irish and Michigan State Are Now Under Investigation

Chicago, Aug. 17 (AP)—Two of college basketball's perennial powers, Kentucky and Bradley, were back in business today—cleared of athletic irregularities which brought a year's punishment.

Kentucky now can wheel out the big, talented team which was forced to sit out the 1952-53 season and Bradley is eligible to play in the national tournament, from which it was barred last winter.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association's council put these institutions back in good standing yesterday and also closed the case on Midwestern of Wichita Falls, Tex., which had drawn a slight reprimand for its recruiting tactics.

With this old business out of the way, the council was able to turn to the new—the cases of three other members who have been accused of violating the athletic code.

These are reported to be Notre Dame and Michigan State, two of the country's best known universities which produce champion and championship-contending football teams, and Arizona State at Tempe.

The NCAA council said an announcement on the status of the so-called "unholy three," never identified officially, may be expected around 5 p. m. (EST) today.

Notre Dame reportedly has attracted the attention of the college ruling body through an incident involving a Trinity College (Conn.) freshman, Charlie Sticka, who showed up on the Irish campus and then quickly rushed back home when Trinity officials screamed "robbery." Michigan State is already on an indefinite probation by the Big Ten Conference, which wants to find out about a spartan scholarship fund.

Parkersburg, W. Va., Aug. 17 (AP)—Amateur Bill Campbell fired a five-under-par 67 on the last round today to whip the veteran pro Sammy Snead and win the West Virginia Open golf tournament for the second time. Campbell's 72-hole total was 271, or 17 under regulation figures. Snead finished with a 274.

Bridge City Nine Takes Early Lead With Two Straight

Stop Kingston, 9-2, And Newburgh, 10-7

Weekend Results

Poughkeepsie 10, Newburgh 7.
Poughkeepsie 9, Kingston 2.
Newburgh 18, Kingston 5.

Poughkeepsie's resourceful All Stars emerged as the No. 1 team in the Hudson valley round robin series over the weekend with impressive victories over Kingston and Newburgh.

The Bridge City nine whipped the Colonials, 9 to 2, behind Billy Ostrom Saturday night at municipal stadium and then overpowered the Newburgh Jewels, 10 to 7, Sunday night at Riverview Field.

The Jewels clobbered the Colonials, 18 to 5, with a 16-hit barrage against three local flingers Sunday afternoon at the Hill City.

Ferraro Victim

Kingston got a sound pitching performance from Jim Ferraro Saturday night but gave him shoddy support in the field. Only three of the nine Poughkeepsie markers were earned.

Ostrom, the fabulous Billy The Kid of Recreation days, revealed that he had lost his overpowering stuff but his southpaw knucklers and slow serves kept Kingston under control in the pinches. He scattered nine hits and fanned six. The winners were credited with 11 off Ferraro but many arrived after the side should have been retired.

Zeke Klosterman and Gerry Bechtold were treated harshly by Newburgh, particularly the middle of the batting order where Lou Negro pounded a single, double and grand slam homer. Evans stroked three singles for the Jewels.

After Kingston scored three times in the first inning on Harry Kite's two-run double and an infield out, the Jewels tied in their half and then racked up 15 runs in the next five frames.

Carmen Donato and Frank Gendardo, who pitched the ninth, held Kingston at bay for the remainder of the game.

Big Sal Misasi unloaded a tremendous line drive homer over the left centerfield wall for Kingston's final marker in the ninth.

Poughkeepsie spotted Newburgh four runs in the top of the first and then bounced back to shell Jim Lawson for six hits and eight runs in their half. Charlie Benefield turned in a sterling relief job for the Jewels, yielding only five hits and two runs in 8 1/3 innings while fanning 10.

Dick Whitesell pitched the first eight innings for his team. About 300 saw the game.

Harry Kite hit a single and triple in Saturday's game and Tom Murphy hit two solo swats. At Newburgh, Tom Carlino, Harry Kite (single and double) and Red Gorsline had two swats apiece.

Poughkeepsie led 6-0 when the Colonials jarred Ostrom momentarily in the sixth on Harry Kite's triple to the right centerfield alley and Bill Glaser's single. Kite singled across another run with the bases loaded in the seventh but Schaffer was thrown out at the plate on a fine relay from Leo Elwell, the former Poughkeepsie High School athletic great.

NCAA Clears Bradley Cats But Irish and Michigan State Are Now Under Investigation

Chicago, Aug. 17 (AP)—Two of college basketball's perennial powers, Kentucky and Bradley, were back in business today—cleared of athletic irregularities which brought a year's punishment.

Kentucky now can wheel out the big, talented team which was forced to sit out the 1952-53 season and Bradley is eligible to play in the national tournament, from which it was barred last winter.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association's council put these institutions back in good standing yesterday and also closed the case on Midwestern of Wichita Falls, Tex., which had drawn a slight reprimand for its recruiting tactics.

With this old business out of the way, the council was able to turn to the new—the cases of three other members who have been accused of violating the athletic code.

These are reported to be Notre Dame and Michigan State, two of the country's best known universities which produce champion and championship-contending football teams, and Arizona State at Tempe.

The NCAA council said an announcement on the status of the so-called "unholy three," never identified officially, may be expected around 5 p. m. (EST) today.

Notre Dame reportedly has attracted the attention of the college ruling body through an incident involving a Trinity College (Conn.) freshman, Charlie Sticka, who showed up on the Irish campus and then quickly rushed back home when Trinity officials screamed "robbery." Michigan State is already on an indefinite probation by the Big Ten Conference, which wants to find out about a spartan scholarship fund.

Campbell Beats Snead

Parkersburg, W. Va., Aug. 17 (AP)—Amateur Bill Campbell fired a five-under-par 67 on the last round today to whip the veteran pro Sammy Snead and win the West Virginia Open golf tournament for the second time. Campbell's 72-hole total was 271, or 17 under regulation figures. Snead finished with a 274.

Inoculate Persons

Wyandot, but had withheld all information relative to the situation at the camp in accordance with a policy of the Ulster County Board of Health not to give names or locations.

The first child to be stricken at the camp was Marian Cuca, 14, who was taken ill on Aug. 2, and who died at the Benedictine Hospital in Kingston on Wednesday, Aug. 12.

Immediately upon receiving the report of the case, Dr. Hargrave and Harry F. Edinger, director of environmental sanitation for the county health department, went to the camp. They obtained the names, addresses and weights of all children who had been in immediate contact with Miss Cuca. As a result of their investigation, gamma globulin was administered to 20 children and counselors under 20 years old, Dr. Hargrave has since revealed.

Dr. Hargrave issued an order forbidding the camp from receiving any more campers, at least until Aug. 20. The second period of camping was scheduled to end on Aug. 6, and a new group of campers were to enter at that time for the camp's third period. With the health department ruling against receiving more children in effect, the camp management decided to close camp on Aug. 6.

On that date, Aug. 6, another polio case was reported. The patient was named in New York as Toby Richman, 9. Again the local health authorities inoculated those children and adolescents who had been in contact with him, this time about 12 doses being administered.

A third case of polio was diagnosed in a camper, Shelley Halpern, 16, on Aug. 9, after the close of the camp. Miss Halpern was a junior counselor.

Patients From Manhattan

All three patients were from Manhattan, but their street addresses were withheld by health authorities in New York. The Richman girl has since recovered sufficiently to return home, and Miss Halpern is a hospital patient.

(Until the story broke in New York, the Ulster County Health Department had steadfastly refused to release either the names, addresses or the location of the place they were staying in the county. The county health authorities, who stated a "policy of the Board of Health" forbade them from giving the information, likewise gave no indication that three of the county's eight cases were in any way related or that the patients had come from a children's camp. Information as to the steps taken by county health officials in administering gamma globulin inoculations was also withheld until after New York newspapers and press association wires carried the first story on the situation.)

The fact that a Mount Tremper camp had been closed because of polio became known on Friday, after 30 parents of children who had been at the camp appealed to Dr. Samuel Frant, deputy New York city health commissioner, at the city's Department of Health.

State Gives Assistance

Dr. Frant relayed the request to state authorities, and the release of enough gamma globulin to inoculate about 275 campers and staff members under 20 years of age was authorized by Dr. Hollis Ingraham, acting State Commissioner of Health.

In New York, distribution of the gamma globulin began at the city health department early Friday afternoon.

On Friday night, after the fact that the large distribution of the serum had been authorized became known here, Dr. Dudley W. Hargrave, Ulster county health commissioner, said he would take steps to obtain enough of the scarce blood derivative to inoculate the 17 counselors under 20 years of age who remained at the camp as a part of a skeleton staff.

Several of the parents who petioned the New York Health Department on Friday were reported in New York to have explained that they were unperturbed by the first case of polio before camp closed, and had not been aware of the two other cases until the last few days.

Temporary Preventive

Gamma globulin is regarded as a temporary preventive and not a cure. Its effects are said to last about five weeks.

Camp Wyandot is a private, non-sectarian, interracial non-profit organization with an office at 49 East 19th street, New York city. Kenneth Friedman is the camp director.

Friedman revealed in New York on Friday that he and the camp staff were devoting themselves to notifying all parents of the availability of the serum. He said that 67 camps in the state had had polio outbreaks so far this summer and 11 besides his own had closed.

35 Persons Die In Bloody Riots

Casablanca, Morocco, Aug. 17 (AP)—French soldiers and police kept an uneasy watch over the main cities of Morocco today, seeking to avoid new outbreaks of violence over religious leadership of the North African protectorate. Thirty-five persons died in bloody riots over the weekend.

The fighting followed a proclamation Saturday by some 300 Berber chieftains and the Pasha of Marrakech, Thami El Glaoui, that the Sultan of Morocco Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef, no longer was the religious leader of the Moslem country.

They named as Imam—"leader of the faithful"—the Sultan's uncle, Moulay Mohammed Ben Arafa. They backed down, however, from a previous decision to install him as the new Sultan.

The Sultans previously have been considered both the temporal and spiritual rulers of the country.

The move against Sidi Mohammed touched off riots in Marrakech Saturday night which claimed seven lives.

Sixteen more deaths were reported from Oujda, Eastern Morocco, yesterday and 12 from Casablanca. A curfew was installed in Oujda, and communication by telephone and telegraph was cut off.

All the demonstrations apparently were set off by supporters of the nationalist-minded Sultan. Trouble developed when the police tried to intervene.

The split left France as an unhappy peacemaker, Gen. Augustin Guillaume, French resident general, went on the radio last night to plead for peace and order. He asked the population to disavow those 'who plunge the country into anarchy by stirring up hate and creating disorder."

Two Women Are Killed

Tuscola, Ill., Aug. 17 (AP)—A New York woman and a California woman were killed and three other persons were injured last night in a two-car collision about a mile east of Tuscola. Mrs. Charles L. Walker of San Jose, Calif., and Mrs. R. Bisca, about 60, of 50 Webb avenue, Hempstead, N. Y., died in the crash. Taken to Jarman Memorial Hospital at Tuscola were Mrs. Bisca's son, Richard, 26, and his wife, Georgiana, 23, of the Long Island address, and Charles L. Walker, 45, husband of Mrs. Walker. Hospital attendants said their injuries are not serious. They said Richard Bisco identified himself as a members of the New York stock exchange. Details of the crash were not immediately available.

Two Are Injured In Bearsville as Coupe Overturns

Two occupants of a coupe which overturned on the Lake Hill road nears Bearsville Saturday afternoon were admitted to Kingston Hospital and the driver apparently escaped without serious injury.

State Trooper C. Teelon of Phoenicia, said the car, driven by Wallace Tucker, 23, of Woodstock, was headed downhill and on a slight curve when it left the road and overturned.

John Petersen, 16, of Bearsville, was admitted to Kingston Hospital for treatment of bruises of the face, an arm, and the body, and Jack Pell of the U. S. Navy, stationed at Norfolk, suffered a skull laceration and body bruises. Tucker was released after examination. The others remained at the hospital until morning.

Trooper Teelon said he was notified of the mishap by Nancy Gilligan, of Bearsville, at about 3:30 p. m. The injured were treated at the scene by a doctor before they were taken to the hospital.

Last of Wreckage Cleared

Utica, Aug. 17 (AP)—Wrecking crews have cleared away the last of 10 New York Central cars derailed when a passenger train struck a stalled highway machine. Service was back to normal at Whitesboro, four miles west of here, by Saturday night, the railroad said. Eighteen persons suffered minor injuries in the wreck of the eastbound Missourian Friday.

17 Hurt in Crash

Buffalo, Aug. 17 (AP)—Seventeen persons were injured, four critically—when a busload of soldiers hurtled down a steep hill last night and collided with six cars at a busy intersection near suburban Williamsville. Police quoted the driver of the chartered Greyhound bus, Robert Edwards, 30, of North Syracuse, as saying the brakes on the vehicle locked as he drove into the intersection of Routes 5 and 78.

Inoculate Persons

Wyandot, but had withheld all information relative to the situation at the camp in accordance with a policy of the Ulster County Board of Health not to give names or locations.

The first child to be stricken at the camp was Marian Cuca, 14, who was taken ill on Aug. 2, and who died at the Benedictine Hospital in Kingston on Wednesday, Aug. 12.

Immediately upon receiving the report of the case, Dr. Hargrave and Harry F. Edinger, director of environmental sanitation for the county health department, went to the camp. They obtained the names, addresses and weights of all children who had been in immediate contact with Miss Cuca. As a result of their investigation, gamma globulin was administered to 20 children and counselors under 20 years old, Dr. Hargrave has since revealed.

Dr. Hargrave issued an order forbidding the camp from receiving any more campers, at least until Aug. 20. The second period of camping was scheduled to end on Aug. 6, and a new group of campers were to enter at that time for the camp's third period. With the health department ruling against receiving more children in effect, the camp management decided to close camp on Aug. 6.

On that date, Aug. 6, another polio case was reported. The patient was named in New York as Toby Richman, 9. Again the local health authorities inoculated those children and adolescents who had been in contact with him, this time about 12 doses being administered.

A third case of polio was diagnosed in a camper, Shelley Halpern, 16, on Aug. 9, after the close of the camp. Miss Halpern was a junior counselor.

Patients From Manhattan

All three patients were from Manhattan, but their street addresses were withheld by health authorities in New York. The Richman girl has since recovered sufficiently to return home, and Miss Halpern is a hospital patient.

(Until the story broke in New York, the Ulster County Health Department had steadfastly refused to release either the names, addresses or the location of the place they were staying in the county. The county health authorities, who stated a "policy of the Board of Health" forbade them from giving the information, likewise gave no indication that three of the county's eight cases were in any way related or that the patients had come from a children's camp. Information as to the steps taken by county health officials in administering gamma globulin inoculations was also withheld until after New York newspapers and press association wires carried the first story on the situation.)

The fact that a Mount Tremper camp had been closed because of polio became known on Friday, after 30 parents of children who had been at the camp appealed to Dr. Samuel Frant, deputy New York city health commissioner, at the city's Department of Health.

State Gives Assistance

Dr. Frant relayed the request to state authorities, and the release of enough gamma globulin to inoculate about 275 campers and staff members under 20 years of age was authorized by Dr. Hollis Ingraham, acting State Commissioner of Health.

In New York, distribution of the gamma globulin began at the city health department early Friday afternoon.

On Friday night, after the fact that the large distribution of the serum had been authorized became known here, Dr. Dudley W. Hargrave, Ulster county health commissioner, said he would take steps to obtain enough of the scarce blood derivative to inoculate the 17 counselors under 20 years of age who remained at the camp as a part of a skeleton staff.

Several of the parents who petioned the New York Health Department on Friday were reported in New York to have explained that they were unperturbed by the first case of polio before camp closed, and had not been aware of the two other cases until the last few days.

Temporary Preventive

Gamma globulin is regarded as a temporary preventive and not a cure. Its effects are said to last about five weeks.

Camp Wyandot is a private, non-sectarian, interracial non-profit organization with an office at 49 East 19th street, New York city. Kenneth Friedman is the camp director.

Friedman revealed in New York on Friday that he and the camp staff were devoting themselves to notifying all parents of the availability of the serum. He said that 67 camps in the state had had polio outbreaks so far this summer and 11 besides his own had closed.

35 Persons Die In Bloody Riots

Casablanca, Morocco, Aug. 17 (AP)—French soldiers and police kept an uneasy watch over the main cities of Morocco today, seeking to avoid new outbreaks of violence over religious leadership of the North African protectorate. Thirty-five persons died in bloody riots over the weekend.

The fighting followed a proclamation Saturday by some 300 Berber chieftains and the Pasha of Marrakech, Thami El Glaoui, that the Sultan of Morocco Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef, no longer was the religious leader of the Moslem country.

They named as Imam—"leader of the faithful"—the Sultan's uncle, Moulay Mohammed Ben Arafa. They backed down, however, from a previous decision to install him as the new Sultan.

The Sultans previously have been considered both the temporal and spiritual rulers of the country.

The move against Sidi Mohammed touched off riots in Marrakech Saturday night which claimed seven lives.

Sixteen more deaths were reported from Oujda, Eastern Morocco, yesterday and 12 from Casablanca. A curfew was installed in Oujda, and communication by telephone and telegraph was cut off.

All the demonstrations apparently were set off by supporters of the nationalist-minded Sultan. Trouble developed when the police tried to intervene.

The split left France as an unhappy peacemaker. Gen. Augustin Guillaume, French resident general, went on the radio last night to plead for peace and order. He asked the population to disavow those 'who plunge the country into anarchy by stirring up hate and creating disorder."

Two Women Are Killed

Tuscola, Ill., Aug. 17 (AP)—A New York woman and a California woman were killed and three other persons were injured last night in a two-car collision about a mile east of Tuscola. Mrs. Charles L. Walker of San Jose, Calif., and Mrs. R. Bisca, about 60, of 50 Webb avenue, Hempstead, N. Y., died in the crash. Taken to Jarman Memorial Hospital at Tuscola were Mrs. Bisca's son, Richard, 26, and his wife, Georgiana, 23, of the Long Island address, and Charles L. Walker, 45, husband of Mrs. Walker. Hospital attendants said their injuries are not serious. They said Richard Bisco identified himself as a members of the New York stock exchange. Details of the crash were not immediately available.

UNCLE EF

After negotiating for a truce just about as long as they did in Korea, Joe Parks and his wife gave up and agreed to continue their married life fighting.

Two Are Injured In Bearsville as Coupe Overturns

Two occupants of a coupe which overturned on the Lake Hill road nears Bearsville Saturday afternoon were admitted to Kingston Hospital and the driver apparently escaped without serious injury.

State Trooper C. Teelon of Phoenicia, said the car, driven by Wallace Tucker, 23, of Woodstock, was headed downhill and on a slight curve when it left the road and overturned.

John Petersen, 16, of Bearsville, was admitted to Kingston Hospital for treatment of bruises of the face, an arm, and the body, and Jack Pell of the U. S. Navy, stationed at Norfolk, suffered a skull laceration and body bruises. Tucker was released after examination. The others remained at the hospital until morning.

Trooper Teelon said he was notified of the mishap by Nancy Gilligan, of Bearsville, at about 3:30 p. m. The injured were treated at the scene by a doctor before they were taken to the hospital.

Last of Wreckage Cleared

Utica, Aug. 17 (AP)—Wrecking crews have cleared away the last of 10 New York Central cars derailed when a passenger train struck a stalled highway machine. Service was back to normal at Whitesboro, four miles west of here, by Saturday night, the railroad said. Eighteen persons suffered minor injuries in the wreck of the eastbound Missourian Friday.

17 Hurt in Crash

Buffalo, Aug. 17 (AP)—Seventeen persons were injured, four critically—when a busload of soldiers hurtled down a steep hill last night and collided with six cars at a busy intersection near suburban Williamsville. Police quoted the driver of the chartered Greyhound bus, Robert Edwards, 30, of North Syracuse, as saying the brakes on the vehicle locked as he drove into the intersection of Routes 5 and 78.

To Film Oklahoma

New York, Aug. 17 (AP)—The authors of "Oklahoma!" have announced their world famous musical, now running for its 11th straight year on the stage, will be filmed with a new wide-screen movie process. A spokesman for Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II, who wrote and produced the show, said they agreed to film it after seeing samples of a movie technique created by Michael Todd, Broadway showman, and Dr. Brian O'Brien of the American Optical Company. He said the process seeks "audience participation" effects like those of other recent big screen and three-dimensional techniques.

There is about one acre of government-owned forest land for each citizen in continental United States.

New Tremors Hit Stricken Islands

Argostolion, Greece, Aug. 17 (AP)—New earth tremors including one rated as a strong earthquake wracked the stricken Ionian Sea islands today as officials estimated the toll from the week's devastation at some 600 dead and 700 seriously injured.

Fifteen new tremors were recorded during a 12-hour period last night and today. They heightened the islanders' near-panicky desire to flee their homelands but otherwise could make little difference on the three islands practically levelled by the past week of upheavals.

The new casualty estimates came from the Argostolion headquarters of Gen. Dimitrios Istrides, who is directing the Greek rescue work. Previously it was feared more than 1,000 persons had been killed.

The new figures were based on complete reports from the island of Ithace and nearly complete reports from the other two stricken isles, Zakinthos and Kefallinia.

Strike Scheduled Today

Batavia, Aug. 17 (AP)—A strike of 900 production and office workers in a contract dispute was scheduled today at the Massey-Harris Co.'s farm equipment plant. The contract between the company and Local 1831, United Steel Workers of America (CIO), expired at Saturday midnight.

To Film Oklahoma

New York, Aug. 17 (AP)—The authors of "Oklahoma!" have announced their world famous musical, now running for its 11th straight year on the stage, will be filmed with a new wide-screen movie process. A spokesman for Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II, who wrote and produced the show, said they agreed to film it after seeing samples of a movie technique created by Michael Todd, Broadway showman, and Dr. Brian O'Brien of the American Optical Company. He said the process seeks "audience participation" effects like those of other recent big screen and three-dimensional techniques.

There is about one acre of government-owned forest land for each citizen in continental United States.

New Tremors Hit Stricken Islands

Argostolion, Greece, Aug. 17 (AP)—New earth tremors including one rated as a strong earthquake wracked the stricken Ionian Sea islands today as officials estimated the toll from the week's devastation at some 600 dead and 700 seriously injured.

Fifteen new tremors were recorded during a 12-hour period last night and today. They heightened the islanders' near-panicky desire to flee their homelands but otherwise could make little difference on the three islands practically levelled by the past week of upheavals.

The new casualty estimates came from the Argostolion headquarters of Gen. Dimitrios Istrides, who is directing the Greek rescue work. Previously it was feared more than 1,000 persons had been killed.

The new figures were based on complete reports from the island of Ithace and nearly complete reports from the other two stricken isles, Zakinthos and Kefallinia.

Strike Scheduled Today

Batavia, Aug. 17 (AP)—A strike of 900 production and office workers in a contract dispute was scheduled today at the Massey-Harris Co.'s farm equipment plant. The contract between the company and Local 1831, United Steel Workers of America (CIO), expired at Saturday midnight.
